As in previous months, the call loan rate on the Stock Exchange did not at any time deviate from 2½%. But outside the Stock Exchange call money was all the tims available at large concessions from the official rates. During the first half of the month the rate outside the Stock Exchange was 2%, a concession of ½%, while in the last half of the month the outside rate was down to only 1½%, a concession of a full 1%. Time money rates were soft in line with the general trend. Rates were repeatedly lowered and at the end of the month were down to 1¾@2% for all dates, but nevertheless were entirely nominal, the same as previously, with an almost complete absence of demand for that class of accommodation, and with few, if any, actual transactions. Prime commercial paper continued in active demand and quotations for choice names of four to six months' maturity continued at 3¼@3½%, with names less well known at 3¾@4. Occasional transactions continued to be noted on some very high class 90-day paper at 3%. The N. Y. Federal Reserve Bank in its discussion of the commercial paper market observed that during April some broadening of the paper market had occurred throughout the country. Investment demand, it was stated, was reported by the dealers as coming from many banks, including to a limited extent the N. Y. City institutions, whose inquiry was in part for their own account and in part for out-of-town correspondents. The paper dealers, as a consequence, were in the position of being able to sell more of the better grade of short paper, on which the demand concentrated, that they were able to obtain, because of the dearth of new drawings by the kind of industrial and commercial concerns able to finance themselves through the open market. The volume of commercial paper outstanding, based on reports received from reporting dealers in leading commercial paper houses, was somewhat larger at the end of March at $105,606,000 than at the end of February, when the amount was $102,818,000, and this was the first increase for any month in nearly two years, but was nevertheless 66% less than the total at the end of March in the previous year.

The abnormal ease in the money market again found its strongest expression in the demoralization of rates for bankers acceptances. Here there were repeated reductions in rates, induced mainly by Federal Reserve policy in extending so greatly the volume of Reserve credit outstanding by the purchase of U. S. Government securities averaging $100,000,000 a week. Rates for acceptances were reduced ¼ of 1% on April 1, and again on Saturday, April 9 (an unusual time since ordinarily little or nothing is done in the market for acceptances on Saturday), and also still another ¼ of 1% on April 12, a further ½ of 1% on April 13, and still another ¼ of 1% on all maturities on April 21. These reductions applied to both the bid and asked columns and to all maturities, making an all-around reduction of 1½% and carrying rates down to the abnormally low figure of 1% bid 7/8 of 1% asked for bills running from 30 to 90 days; 1⅛% bid and 1% asked for 120 days and 1⅜% bid and 1¼% asked for 150 and 180 days. The N. Y. Federal Reserve Bank buying rate for acceptances was left unchanged at 2½% on maturities from one to 120 days, and at 3% on maturities from 121 to 180 days. At these rates of course no bills were offered to the Federal Reserve Bank and accordingly their holdings of bills were further reduced and on April 27 were down to $45,874,000 as against $66,362,000 on March 30. Their holdings of bills for foreign central banks also declined and on April 27 were reported at $297,735,000 as against $335,425,000 on March 30.

The total volume of bankers acceptances outstanding on March 31, according to the report of the American Acceptance Council, released April 18, was $911,290,714, a further reduction during the month of $8,101,166. Compared with the figures for the end of March 1931, there was a reduction of $555,445,789 or more than the total volume that was outstanding in 1927.

THE RETURNS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE AND MEMBER BANKS—BROKERS' LOANS.

The conspicuous feature during April in the returns of the Federal Reserve banks was the huge addition to the holdings of U. S. Government securities, as related elsewhere in this article where full particulars may be found. The Reserve banks after the first week of the month entered on a policy of adding an average of $100,000,000 a week to their holdings of these Government securities, after having pursued the plan of making additions of about $25,000,000 a week for some time previously. The purchases at the $25,000,000 rate did not suffice to offset the contraction in the volume of Reserve credit outstanding caused by reduction in member bank borrowing and the falling off in the bill holdings of the Federal Reserve banks. The figures in support of this statement are given in our discussion of the subject in our review of the money market and they show that in the five weeks from Feb. 24 to March 30 the discount holdings of the Reserve banks (reflecting member bank borrowing) dropped from $835,243,000 to $633,255,000 while the acceptance holdings fell from $133,382,000 Feb. 24, to $66,362,000 March 30, making a combined reduction of $269,008,000. On the other hand the increase in the holdings of U. S. Government securities during the same five weeks was only $131,062,000, these holdings having risen only from $740,556,000 Feb. 24 to $871,618,000 March 30 with the result that the total volume of Reserve credit outstanding (including another but small item besides the items mentioned) on March 30 was down to $1,578,146,000, against $1,723,862,000 Feb. 24, showing an actual reduction of $145,716,000 instead of an increase so insistently demanded by those advocating Reserve credit inflation.

With the increase in the weekly purchases to $100,000,000, the situation was completely changed. The additions to the U. S. security holdings now greatly outran the further diminution in the discount holdings (which now, indeed, proceeded at a relatively moderate pace) and the slight further reduction in the acceptance holdings. The result was that the total volume of Reserve credits outstanding was heavily increased. Between April 6 and April 27 the discount holdings were reduced only from $635,274,000 to $531,824,000 and the acceptance holdings from $57,946,000 to $45,874,000, making a combined reduction of $115,522,000, while on the other hand the holdings of U. S. Government securities in the same three weeks increased no less than $306,218,000, the total of the holdings having risen from $885,014,000 April 6 to $1,191,232,000 April 27. At the same time the volume of Reserve credit outstanding, as measured by the total of the bill and security holdings, was, as a result of these extra acquisitions of U. S. securities, raised from $1,582,555,000 April 6 and $1,578,146,000 March 30 to $1,773,745,000 April 27. Thus the end aimed at was being achieved. This was accomplished, too, without any addition to the volume of Federal Reserve notes in circulation. Indeed, the amount of note circulation actually showed some contraction in the interval. For April 27 the amount was reported at $2,526,572,000 as against $2,561,573,000 April 6 and $2,546,275,000 on March 30. If it be asked how the means were obtained for this expansion in the volume of Reserve credit without any addition in the note circulation, the answer is very simple. Member banks increased their reserves with the Federal Reserve banks, so that the reserve deposits with the 12 Reserve banks increased from $1,911,496,000 March 30 to $2,114,423,000 April 27. There were also some changes in the other different items of deposits, but these were not of sufficient importance to need detailed mention. Total deposits (including member banks' reserve deposits) stood at $2,234,200,000 April 27 as against $2,020,161,000 April 6 and $2,018,642,000 March 30. The gold holdings of the Federal Reserve banks fell off somewhat during the month, presumably as a consequence of the renewed exports of the metal, and April 27 stood at $3,014,534,000 against $3,032,202,000 April 6 and $3,017,757,000 March 30. With gold holdings lower and deposit liabilities so very much higher, the ratio of total reserves to deposits and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined fell to 67.9% April 27 in comparison with 70.8% April 6 and 70.9% March 30, and comparing with 84.0% 12 months before on April 29 1931. It has already been noted that holdings of acceptances by the 12 Reserve banks were further reduced from $66,362,000 March 30 to $45,874,000 April 27. The holdings of acceptances on account of the foreign central banks also suffered substantial contraction and were down to $297,735,000 April 27 against $335,425,000 on March 30. Foreign bank deposits, however, with the Reserve institutions were $49,598,000 April 27 against $31,249,000 on March 30.

Brokers' loans of the reporting member banks in N. Y. City recorded no changes of any great consequence, as has been the case for some time, the amount remaining very small. The total April 27 was reported at $495,000,000, which compared with $525,000,000 on March 30. The N. Y. Stock Exchange monthly figures, however, showed very notable contraction; for April 30 the borrowings by Stock Exchange members were reported at $379,016,662, as against $533,103,059 March 31, $524,663,758 Feb. 29, $512,017,942 Jan. 31, $587,159,813 Dec. 31, $730,151,908 Nov. 30 and $1,354,067,350 as recently as Aug. 31 1931.

COURSE OF STERLING EXCHANGE DURING APRIL.

Exchange rates on London suffered a severe set-back in April after the sharp rise during March. Perhaps the upward movement had been proceeding too rapidly for the satisfaction of the Bank of England, and doubtless also there was a considerable unloading of exchange by speculative purchasers who had bought sterling bills on the idea that the pound sterling would rapidly advance to its former par of $4.8665. At all events, the rate on London suffered several severe breaks on several occasions during the month, at which times support appeared to be completely lacking, with the result that cable transfers on London on April 29 sold down to $3.65 as against $3.81¾ on April 1, with the range on April 30 at $3.65⅞@$3.66¼. There were a number of developments and incidents during the month suggesting that the British Government itself was not wholly free of concern as to the course of the pound sterling. One of these incidents was a quite unexpected statement made by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in presenting his budget to the British Parliament on April 19, disclosing an intention on the part of the British Government to take important steps intended to safeguard the pound sterling and to be prepared for all contingencies. As part of the plan the Chancellor of the Exchequer sought authority to borrow £150,000,000 "to avoid violent and perilous fluctuations of the pound sterling." In the course of his explanation of the new plan, and which is intended to establish an "Exchange Equalization Account," he said it was impossible now to know when the country would return to the gold standard or at what level the pound sterling would be stabilized. The full text of his remarks is given in the early portion of this article, from which its nature can be judged. On the following Monday (April 25) the House of Commons, apparently without a dissenting vote, authorized the establishment of the stabilization fund, or, as it is officially called, the "Exchange Equalization Account." Major Walter Elliot, Financial Secretary of the Treasury, in the absence of the Chancellor, explained to the House of Commons that the fund was being created "partly" for the purpose of currency management. The general belief, however, appeared to be that it was intended chiefly to prevent speculators from gambling in sterling. The fund is to be built around the old dollar exchange account, with a nucleus of £25,000,000, and authority to borrow £150,000,000. The account, Major Elliot said, would be used to service the purchase of foreign securities of all kinds, apparently indicating that the Government's ammunition against speculators would be these securities of their own country as well as gold and foreign exchange. The sterling rate on London displayed its chief weakness from the time of Mr. Chamberlain's announcement on April 19, on which day some transactions in cable transfers were recorded at $3.79½, from which point there was a decline to $3.65 on April 29, as already noted. The weakness was described as due to the liquidation of speculative operations by discouraged bulls who were tired of waiting for a further rise which failed to eventuate.

The fact that a considerable number of full accounts were actually closed out at a loss, naturally discouraged fresh speculation for a rise. The market was especially soft on Monday, April 25, and Tuesday, April 26, owing to heavy selling of sterling in Paris. In some quarters the break on those days was attributed to a small flight from sterling to the dollar as a result of the German state elections on Sunday, April 24, in which the national socialists, or Nazis, became the strongest party in Prussia. Dispatches from Paris, however, stated that the break appeared to be a natural consequence of the announcement of the authorization of the Exchange Equalization Account and of the low money rates at London. That no uneasiness was felt regarding the situation in London was perfectly evident from the fact that the Bank of England on Thursday, April 21, further reduced its discount rate from 3½% to 3%, though even before that the decline in open market rates at London had made it plain that the money situation at the British financial center was very comfortable and that no concern was being felt in financial London regarding the future, no matter what the fluctuations in sterling exchange. Open market discounts at the end of April were quoted at 1⅞@2% for short bills and at 2@2 1-16% for three months bills, which was lower even than the rates at the close of March.

Increased tariffs raising duties from 10% to 20% were put into effect by Great Britain on April 26. Semi luxuries and luxuries were taxed 25% and 30%. A tariff of 33 1/3% was placed on some iron and steel manufactures for the next three months, pending further study. Canadian exchange continued to rule at a severe discount and the discount was somewhat higher at the end of April than at the beginning, the quotation April 30 being 10 11-16@10¾% discount against 9⅝@9⅞% discount on April 1.

Gold exports from the U. S., as already noted, were resumed on a considerable scale during April, the shipments being mainly to France and to Holland, from which latter country intelligence came that the Bank of the Netherlands had decided to withdraw all the gold that it held abroad, amounting to 103,000,000 florins ($41,200,000) principally in the U. S., though newspaper accounts stated that most of this gold had some time previously been set aside for future shipment and was held under earmark by the N. Y. Federal Reserve Bank, so that to that extent no loss to the U. S. stock of the metal would be involved. The N. Y. Federal Reserve Bank summarizes the gold movement to and from the U. S. during April as follows:

"Following an increase of $36,000,000 in March, the monetary gold stock of the United States was reduced about $26,000,000 in April. The April exports, which totaled $49,500,000, consisted chiefly of shipments of $24,500,000 to France and of $22,000,000 to Holland; the latter included gold released from earmark, as well as gold shipped on exchange transactions. Imports totaled $15,000,000, of which $7,000,000 came from Canada, $1,000,000 from Uruguay, $1,000,000 from Peru, and $600,000 from Mexico through the Port of New York. In addition, through the Dallas District $1,000,000 was imported from Mexico, and through San Francisco $2,000,000 was received from China, $1,300,000 from Japan, and $970,000 from Australia. The gold released from earmark for export and to cover payments in this country was in part offset by some new earmarkings, but the total amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account was reduced during the month by $4,000,000."

THE CONTINENTAL AND OTHER FOREIGN EXCHANGES.

Further reductions in discount rates of various central banks were again a conspicuous feature in foreign exchange. Reference to the lowering of the discount rate of the Bank of England has already been made. The Bank of Germany twice marked down its rates; on April 8 it reduced its discount rate from 6% to 5½% and its Lombard rate from 7% to 6½%, both effective the next day, Saturday, April 9; on April 27 there was a further reduction to 5% in the discount rate and to 6% in the Lombard rate, effective April 28. On April 18 the Bank of the Netherlands lowered its discount rate from 3%, the figure in effect since Sept. 29 1931, to 2½%, the change going into effect the next day. The Bank of Portugal on April 4 reduced from 7% to 6½%. The National Bank of Czechoslovakia on April 11 reduced from 6% to 5%. On April 16 the National Bank of Hungary reduced from 7% to 6% and on April 19 the Bank of Finland lowered its rate from 7% to 6½%. The Bank of Ireland on April 21 reduced from 4½% to 4%. The Imperial Bank of India reduced from 6% to 5% on April 28.

The French franc moved irregularly and nearly the whole month ruled above the point at which it was figured gold could be exported as a regular exchange operation from this side. Current banking opinion was that France was conducting triangular operations involving the pound sterling, the American dollar and the French franc. The early part of the month cable transfers on Paris sold on several days at 3.95c., but towards the close of the month, that is on April 29, the rate was down to 3.93¾@3.93⅞, with the range April 30 3.94@3.94 3-16. The Bank of France kept steadily adding to its gold holdings, reporting a gain of 123,176,448 francs in the week ending April 8; of 156,035,924 francs in the week ending April 15; of 415,738,497 francs in the week ending April 22, and with 381,127,063 francs further gain in the week ending April 29. The German mark displayed weakness the early part of April but recovered the latter part. Cable transfers on Berlin, from 23.80 April 1 sold down to 23.70 April 12, but was back again to 23.80 April 15 and on April 28 sold as high as 23.82, with the range April 30 23.78@23.80. The success of President von Hindenburg at the run-off election on Sunday, April 10, had been fully expected and hence had little influence upon mark exchange. On the other hand, the success of the National Socialists, or Nazis, in the elections in Prussia and in the other German States on Sunday, April 24, though it created considerable nervousness in the other European markets, appears to have been received with considerable equanimity in Germany. At all events, mark exchange was not adversely affected; indeed, the trend appeared to be upward; moreover, the money market in Berlin developed increasing ease, as is evident from the fact that the Bank of Germany twice reduced its discount rate, already as noted.

Associated Press advices from Switzerland announced that the agreement between the German local governments and foreign creditors relative to repayment of approximately $60,000,000 in short term credits had become valid on April 27, when the requisite number of interested parties signed the agreement. On April 21 Associated Press advices from Berlin also said that an agreement to extend until Nov. 10 1933 the $125,0000,00 credit that the German Government obtained from an international banking group headed by Lee, Higginson & Co. had been signed the night before. Interest on this credit, which would have expired Nov. 10 1932, was to be reduced to 6%. It was stated that American investors held about 70% of this credit, the rest being held by British, Dutch and Swedish investors, with some small German holdings. A scale of gradual repayment was established, the first payment of $15,500,000 to be made in the middle of July, 1932. The Board of Directors of the Bank for International Settlements on April 11 reduced the interest rate on the $90,000,000 credit to the German Reichsbank from 7¼% to 6%, effective from April 4 to June 4. The Berlin Boerse was reopened on April 12 after seven months in which official trading was suspended. The Bank of Germany for the first quarter of April recorded a gain in gold and bullion of 92,000 marks, then showed a decrease of 18,956,000 marks in the second week, with 139,000 gain in the third quarter and 1,091,000 marks decrease in the final quarter of the month. The note circulation of the Bank showed a contraction of 145,398,000 marks in the first quarter, 85,321,000 marks in the second quarter and 125,189,000 marks in the third quarter, with 252,892,000 marks expansion in the final quarter of the month.

In the case of Austria the one quarter share of the Federa Reserve banks in the $12,645,000 credit to the Austrian National Bank granted in 1931 in conjunction with the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Bank for International Settlements came due the latter part of April and was renewed, "no alternative being open." The New York "Times" in its issue of April 19 said that this credit would become due the next day, and that credits to Hungary and Jugoslavia in the amount of $20,000,000 and $3,000,000 respectively would be due the same week. It added that the Reserve bank's share of all three credits, amounting to about $9,000,000, would presumably be renewed, since no other course was open, as would the participations of the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Bank for International Settlements, and that together with the $22,500,000 of the $90,000,000 Reichsbank credit held by the Federal Reserve, these central European credits brought the Reserve's total of foreign loans up to about $32,000,000 compared with about $160,000,000 the previous August, when the Bank of England credit was being used.

Italian exchange after moving lower the early part of the month made part recovery the latter part; in other words, cable transfers on Italy declined from 5.18⅝ April 1 to 5.13½ April 14, but were back to 5.16¼ April 30. Advices from Rome April 9 stated that the $1,000,000,000 lire nine year internal treasury bond offering had been oversubscribed 2½ times, a much larger percentage of over subscription than that which marked the previous internal offering. Greece suspended gold payments on April 25 with the result that cable transfers which had ruled in the neighborhood of 1.29, dropped on Apru 27 to 0.70 with the range April 30 at 0.77.@0.80. On April 15 drastic reductions in debt service payments by both Greece and Bulgaria were announced by representatives of the two countries at Geneva. It was made plain in both cases that the decisions resulted from the failure of the Great Powers to authorize, through the League Council, the relief measures urged by the Financial Commission of the League in its report on the difficulties of South Eastern European countries.

In exchange on the countries neutral during the war the feature during April was the Associated Press advices from London under date of April 20 saying that an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam reported that the Bank of the Netherlands had decided to withdraw all the gold that it holds abroad, amounting to 103,000,000 florins ($41,200,000) principally in the United States. It was added that the decision implied no distrust of the dollar, but had been reached because of the belief of the directors that the Bank did not need to carry a large gold stock abroad in the present circumstances. Comment in this country was to the effect that the gold held here by the Bank of the Netherlands had already been earmarked for its account in the vaults of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and hence its withdrawal would not reduce the gold stock of the United States, since it no longer formed a part of such stock. The trend of the Dutch guilder was strongly upward and cable transfers on Amsterdam April 30 ranged at 40.53@40.54½ against 40.41@.45 April 1. The rise was attributed largely to the flow of funds to Holland for safe keeping. A decision of the Amsterdam banks not to permit interest on current accounts in excess of 100,000 guilders followed action of a similar nature previously taken by Swiss banks. The step was a reflection of the glut of short term money which had found its way into Switzerland and Holland as a result of unsettled conditions. As remarked further above the Bank of the Netherlands on April 18 reduced its discount rate from 3% to 2½%. As already stated, exports of gold from the United States to Holland reached $22,000,000 during April. Swiss exchange lacked the strength of Dutch exchange, and moved lower. Table transfers on Switzerland, as against 19.40½@19.44 April 5, sold up to 19.49@19.50½ April 12, but then moved downward and April 28 was 19.39¼@19.43 with the range April 30 19.40½@19.43. The Scandinavian exchanges were all depressed moving sharply lower in sympathy with the decline in sterling exchange, and with the Swedish crown especially weak because of the heavy involvement of Sweden in the Krueger and Toll disaster. The revelations regarding this disaster were very startling and of a most unfortunate character, indicating heavy losses and grave irregularities in the management of the properties. This led to a panicky movement on the part of Swedish banks and other Swedish holders to liquidate Krueger securities. Cable transfers on Sweden, as against 20.35@20.55 April 1, sold down to 18.21½@18.35 April 26 with the range April 30 at 18.41@18.45. The Norwegian crown on cable transfers dropped from 20.10 April 1 to 18.21 April 19, with the range April 30 18.62@18.65. Rates for the Danish crown were on the whole much better maintained, but nevertheless moved lower to some extent, cable transfers on Denmark on April 30 selling at 20.01@20.10 against 20.75@20.90 on April 1. Spanish pesetas pursued an independent course, and for the first time in a long while developed a rising tendency, with the result that cable transfers on April 30 sold at 7.87@7.88 against 7.55@7.56 April 1. Bankers attributed the strength to a new feeling of confidence in the Republican Government, as evidenced by the heavy oversubscription of the 500,000,000 peseta internal loan floated. It was reported that foreign interests had displayed a willingness to advance the funds to the Government, but that the authorities decided against external borrowing in order to avoid any additional strain on the exchange.

Exchange on the South American countries was extremely dull owing to the general prevalence of governmental exchange control. According to a dispatch from Ralph H. Ackerman, commercial attache to the U. S. Commerce Department at Santiago, Chile, that country vested control of international exchange transactions in an exchange control commission of seven members appointed by the President of the Republic. While the central bank alone may deal in exchange, the exchange commission fixes the amount which each applicant for exchange may acquire. Preference in application is to be given to cover the importation of raw materials for Chilean industry. Other things being equal, preference is also to be given to importation from countries whose imports of Chilean products are higher in value. The central bank is to fix the rate of exchange daily on the basis of the average of the last exchange transactions effected. The exchange commission will control all exports and will authorize only those cases in which the net value will be remitted to Chile either in the form of foreign exchange or in articles of merchandise on the preferred list. In the case of exports of nitrate, iodine, iron and copper industries, however, the commission is authorized to require only a part of the value of such exports to be returned to Chile in the form of exchange. In no case, however, is this value to amount to less than the cost of production in Chile based on the average purchasing power of the peso in the six months immediately preceding. Paper currency issued by the central bank is declared inconvertible, but provision is made for the resumption of conversion whenever, for three consecutive months, the gold reserves of the bank have exceeded 40% of the combined total of currency issued and deposits against which reserves are to be maintained. Payment of foreign currency deposits in any commercial banks may be demanded only in instalments of not exceeding 20% each, at intervals of three months. The Chilean peso on the new basis was quoted at 6.00@6.06 against 12.05@12.12½ on the old basis. The Peruvian sol for checks continued in the neighborhood of 28.00. Associated Press advices from Lima stated that two new decrees affecting Peru's national finance structure had been put into effect on April 28 in a supreme effort on behalf of the Government to maintain the gold sol at its present par value of 28c. in U. S. gold. United Press advices from Lima April 27 also stated that the Central Reserve Bank of Peru had shipped $1,000,000 in gold coin to the N. Y. Federal Reserve Bank and stated that this was the second gold shipment in the last 30 days, demonstrating Peru's determination to stay on the gold standard. The Brazilian milreis moved substantially higher, apparently because of better home trade conditions.

In exchange on the Far East, the developments were not out of the ordinary. On April 28 the Imperial Bank of India reduced its rate of discount from 6% to 5%. Indian hoarders of gold continue to dispose of the metal for rupees in order to take advantage of the high premium on gold. It was estimated that since September India had shipped not less than £50,000,000 of the metal to London. Tokio dispatches April 25 stated that the Japanese Government has ended its unlucky experiment in State control of the prices of basic commodities by selling 107,380 bales of raw silk to Paulino Gerli, President of the Silk Association of America. The deal is declared to have been the largest and the price the lowest ever recorded in Tokio. Failure to control the price of silk is especially serious to Japan at this time, when she is admittedly strained by the expense of the campaigns in Manchuria and Shanghai and by the Chinese boycott. It is chiefly through her exports of this commodity that she has been able to finance her expenditures in the United States for cotton, wheat and other raw materials. The Japanese yen for checks was quoted at 32.26@32.38 April 30 against 32.80@33.13 on April 1. The Chinese currencies all moved lower owing to the renewed decline in the price of silver. The Hong-Kong dollar for checks was quoted at 23.12@23.11-16 April 30 against 24.40@25 1-16 April 1. The tael on Shanghai was 30.17@30⅞ April 30 against 32¼@33.38 on April 1. Rupees on Bombay were 27.25@27.63 April 30 against 28.37@28.89 April 1. The price of silver after the sharp drop in March, declined still further in April, with the London quotation April 30 16⅞ pence per ounce against 17⅝ pence on March 31.

The tables on pages 19 to 41 furnish a complete record of the transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during April and range since Jan. 1. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. A few other bonds, like the Holland-American Line 6s, for special reasons, are also quoted "flat," but where this is the case the quotation "flat" will be found against the name of the issue. This method of quoting bonds became effective Jan. 2 1909.

General Quotations

OF BONDS AND STOCKS

In the earlier part of this publication complete records of the dealings on the leading stock exchanges of the country, for the latest month and for the calendar year to date, are furnished. In this department of General Quotations we combine in one comprehensive whole, securities of all classes and descriptions, not only those dealt in on the exchanges, but also leading unlisted and inactive securities. The following is an index to the different classes of securities quoted:

Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.

The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

Quotations for equipment bonds are based on average maturities

Quotations for guaranteed stocks are "and dividend"; that is, the accrued dividend must be paid in addition to the price. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.

It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "gu" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.

The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

Under the heading "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities" we include all issues which do not appear under the previous two headings, namely "Railroads (Steam)" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

United States and Municipal Bonds

In reporting below prices for State and municipal securities, we give bid and asked quotations wherever they can be obtained The custom however, is to quote municipal securities on the basis of the return they yield per annum. Therefore in most cases it will be found that instead of actual prices we have inserted in the column headed "To Net" certain figures to indicate the interest rate at which business in the bonds is being done. Thus 4.35% means that the particular security can be bought or sold at a price that will yield the purchaser or seller 4.35% per annum to the maturity of the issue. Where two figures appear, as for instance "4.25% to 4.35%," the rate of return varies according to the maturity—the shorter maturities yielding the lowest rate, and the longer maturities yielding the highest return.

In State and municipal bonds the custom has always been to quote them "and interest." That is, the accrued interest must in all cases be added on.

Note.—Owing to the present demoralized condition of the municipal bond markets, brokers and dealers find it difficult, and in many cases, almost impossible to make quotations for municipal bonds. Bid prices, especially for the smaller municipalities, are practically out of the question and sales or terms are simply a matter of bargaining between buyer and seller. In fact the absolute lack of demand often causes good bonds to be offered at almost any price.

STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.

REVIEW OF MAY—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL EVENTS.

Business depression remained unrelieved during May, but on the contrary appeared to be deepening and widening, and in the absence of any signs of change for the better attention continued to center on the doings in Congress and by the Administrative and Executive Departments of the Government, where the great problems of the day were receiving consideration and had to be solved. These problems involved balancing of the budget and providing new sources of revenue to meet a budget deficit steadily growing in magnitude; devising measures for dealing with the unemployment situation where, owing to the deepening of the gloom in the business world, idleness was increasing at a startling rate; carrying out programs for economies in Government operations so as to reduce outlays and expenditures, besides problems of credit and banking and a variety of other things that spring up in periods of industrial paralysis and tax the ingenuity of the best minds. With the political complexion of the House of Representatives different from that of the Administration and with the United States Senate inclined to act as a sort of free lance, the views of the President and of Secretary Mills were not always in accord with those of the Congressional leaders, and this added to the complications of the situation.

The efforts of the President were directed to expediting legislation and to get Congress to perform the duties and functions required of the legislative body in times of stress and trial such as the country is now experiencing. In this he was urgent, persistent and unrelenting, though it cannot be said that a large measure of success crowned his efforts, and at the end of the month it was impossible to hazard a guess as to when Congress could be depended upon to complete its labors and definitely adjourn—which last was the desideratum that the business world was especially seeking since the uncertainty as to the outcome of much specious legislation was unquestionably serving to retard business recovery and to hold the business world in thralldom to well-defined fears not altogether without serious foundation.

CONGRESS WARNED THAT LEGISLATIVE TACTICS DELAY RESTORATION OF CONFIDENCE.

Numerous were the messages which the President sent to Congress, and the statements he made generally with the idea of advancing the course of legislation.

On May 5 the President sent a message to Congress in which he declared that "nothing is more necessary at this time than balancing the budget." He added that "nothing will put more heart into the country than prompt and courageous and united action in enacting the legislation which this situation imperatively demands, and an equally determined stand in defeating unwise and unnecessary legislation." He asserted that "the most essential factor to economic recovery to-day is the restoration of confidence," and attributed diminishing public confidence to "the manner in which the House of Representatives rejected both the revenue program proposed by the Treasury and the program unanimously reported by the Committee on Ways and Means; the character of the tax measures passed; the action of the House which would increase Governmental expenditure by $132,000,000 for road-building; the action further to enlarge expenditures in non-service connected benefits from the Veterans' Bureau at the very time when the House was refusing to remedy abuse in these same services; the virtual destruction of both the national economy program proposed by the executive officials, and the program of the Special House Committee on Economy; the failure of the House to give adequate authority for early reduction of Governmental Bureaus and Commissions; the passage of legislation by the House placing burdens of impossible execution upon the Federal Reserve System over the protest of the Federal Reserve Board; the threat of further legislation looking to uncontrolled inflation"—all these, he insisted, had "resulted in diminishing public confidence and offsetting the constructive, unified efforts of the Executive and the Congress undertaken earlier in the year for recovery of employment and agriculture."

According to the President, the situation required (1) "the prompt enactment of a revenue bill adequate to produce the necessary revenue and so designed as to distribute the burden equitably and not to impede economic recovery," and (2) a drastic program of economy which, including the savings already made in the executive budget of $369.000.000. can be increased to exceed $700.000,000 per annum.

Such a program, to accomplish its purpose, he declared "must embrace the rejection of all measures that increase expenditures unless they be for undoubted emergency; the reduction in appropriations now pending below the figures submitted in the Executive budget on Dec. 9 last; a reconsideration of the legislation covering those economy projects which require repeal or amendment to the laws; and an effective grant of authority to the Executive to reorganize and consolidate and eliminate unnecessary Governmental bureaus and establishments."

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S THREE-POINT PROGRAM TO PROVIDE RELIEF AND STIMULATE EMPLOYMENT—BORROWING POWER OF RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION WOULD BE INCREASED IN BEHALF OF STATES AND ENTERPRISES INCREASING EMPLOYMENT.

A three-point program announced by President Hoover on May 12, to provide for relief and stimulate employment, embodied in effect (said the New York "Herald Tribune") a substantial part of the relief proposals made on May 11 by Senator Robinson, Democrat, with the backing of prominent leaders of his party; it suggested that the borrowing powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be increased by the amount of $1,500,000,000 for use in making loans to States for relief purposes and in underwriting loans for self-sustaining enterprises undertaken either by public bodies or by private enterprises. It was also noted in the paper quoted:

The grant of new authority to borrow money would increase the borrowing authorization of the Reconstruction Corporation to the total amount of $3,000,000,000. It already has authority to issue $1,500,000,000 in debentures and has an additional subscription of $500,000,000 from the Treasury.

The three-point program was thus summarized in the New York "Times" of May 13:

1. That the Corporation be authorized to issue an additional $1,500,000,000 in debentures, of the proceeds from which $300,000,000 is to be loaned to States for general relief measures; $40,000,000 for export agricultural aid, and the remaining $1,160,000,000 loaned to private business for reproductive enterprises, assured by contracts.

2. That State bonds and securities which cannot otherwise be floated be purchased by the Corporation when the proceeds of these bonds and securities are to be used for unemployment relief.

3. That the Corporation be authorized to loan funds for self-liquidating projects such as toll bridges, tunnels and so forth.

According to the "Herald Tribune," all the Republican members of the Senate Banking Committee with the exception of Senators Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa and John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, ranked as insurgents, attended the White House conference on Thursday night, May 12. That paper went on to say:

The Senators present, besides Couzens and Norbeck, were Philips Lee Goldsborough, Maryland; John G. Townsend, Delaware; Frederic C. Walcott, Connecticut; Robert D. Carey, Wyoming; James E. Watson, Indiana, and Frederick Steiwer, Oregon.

Also present were Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, and Walter H. Newton, the President's secretary for political affairs.

The plan outlined by the President was discussed in the morning at the White House, with Senator Robinson, Secretary Mills, Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and General Charles G. Dawes, President of the Reconstruction Corporation.

Late in the afternoon it was discussed at a Democratic caucus and also at a conference of Republican Senators, but no definite decision was reached by the Democrats and there were marked indications of controversy within their ranks.

As it was discussed at these conferences, the program contained one item which the President did not mention. In addition to the specific allocation of $300,000,000 in loans to the States for relief there was also a definite allocation of $40,000,000 to promote exports of agricultural products to foreign countries.

The movement to do something speedily about the unemployment situation, with many localities reporting exhaustion of their resources for assisting their jobless, took the center of the stage in the capital, and preoccupied the leaders of both parties, both uptown and downtown, beginning with a breakfast conference between the President and Senator Watson.

White House Statement.

The three-hour conference between the President and Mr. Dawes, Secretary Mills and Mr. Meyer followed. The White House then issued this statement.

"At a conference this morning the President and Senator Robinson canvassed the plan of Senator Robinson and the plans of the President to provide for relief and to stimulate enlarged employment. Methods were considered of combining, simplifying and putting into concrete form the different proposals so as to secure united non-partisan and immediate action and not to delay completion of the work at this session.

"The President expressed high appreciation of Senator Robinson's action in opening the way for unified action and his confidence that a solution will be found. It was agreed that the prerequisite of any plan is balancing of the budget."

A series of informal conferences was held at the Capitol in the course of the day. Senator Watson, upon his return from the White House, conferred with several Senators of both parties. Late this afternoon, Senator Robinson called a conference of the Democratic Steering Committee and the Senate members of the policy committee.

At the close of the meeting Senator Robinson announced that there had been a general discussion of plans for unemployment relief but that the discussion had not been completed and would be resumed to-morrow morning. He said there was general sympathy with the proposal which he made yesterday but no conclusions had been reacned. He predicted passage of legislation before the end of the session.

The following statement was issued by President Hoover on May 12, following the night conference:

The program for united action discussed by the President with Senators Robinson and Watson is as follows:

1. The policy steadfastly adhered to up to the present time has been that responsibility for relief to distress belongs to private organizations, local communities and the States. That fundamental policy is not to be changed.

But since the fear has arisen that existing relief measures and resources may prove inadequate in certain localities and to insure against any possible breakdown in those localities, it is proposed that authority be granted to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to assist such States as may need it by underwriting only State bonds or by loaning directly to such States as may not be in position temporarily to sell securities in the market. The funds so obtained to be used for relief purposes and the total limited to $250,000,000 or $300,000,000.

The second part of the program contemplates providing the machinery where employment may be increased through restoring normal occupations rather than works of artificial character. Without entering the field of industrial or public expansion there are a large number of economically sound and self-supporting projects of a constructive replacement character that would unquestionably be carried forward were it not for the present situation existing in the capital markets and the inadequate functioning of the credit machinery of the country. They exist both in the field of public bodies and of industry.

There is no dearth of capital, and on the other hand, there is a real demand for capital for productive purposes that have been held in abeyance. The problem is to make the existing capital available and to stimulate its use in constructive activities. This involves, under existing conditions, resort to special machinery which is adapted to furnish the necessary element of confidence.

It is proposed to use the instrumentality of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which has a Nation-wide organization, by authorizing the Corporation either to underwrite or make loans for income-producing and self-sustaining enterprises which will increase employment, whether undertaken by public bodies or by private enterprises.

2. In order to safeguard the program beyond all question it is proposed that there must be proper security for the loans, that as said projects must be income-producing, borrowers must have sufficient confidence to furnish part of the capital, and that the project must contribute to early and substantial employment.

It is proposed to provide the necessary funds as they are required by the sale of securities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and its total borrowing powers to be increased up to $3,000,000,000. It is not proposed to issue Government bonds. It is hoped that this further process of speeding the economic machine will not involve any such sum. But in view of the early adjournment of Congress it is desirable to provide an ample margin.

It is necessary to sharply distinguish between the use of capital for the above purposes and its use for unproductive public works. This proposal represents a flow of funds into productive enterprises which is not taking place to-day because of abnormal conditions. These being loans on security and being self-liquidating in character, do not constitute a charge against the taxpayer or the public credit. The issue of bonds for public works non-productive of revenue is a direct charge either upon the taxpayer or upon the public credit, the interest on which and the ultimate redemption of which must be met from taxation.

An examination shows that to increase Federal Government construction work during the next year beyond the amounts already provided for would be to undertake works of largely artificial character far in advance of public return and would represent a wasteful use of capital and public credit.

On May 13 Associated Press accounts from Washington said:

Senate Democrats to-day turned the Hoover compromise $1,500,000,000 relief plan over to a special committee for study.

A second conference of the Democrats failed to develop an absolute approval of the compromise. The special committee was determined upon to go over the plan. Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, whose conference with President Hoover opened the way for a compromise, will serve as a member.

Other members are Wagner (N. Y.), Walsh (Mont.), Pittman (Nev.) and Bulkley (Ohio).

PRESIDENT HOOVER SUBMITS 12-POINT PROGRAM IN WHICH GOVERNMENT CAN AID IN BUSINESS RECOVERY—DECLARES AGAINST ISSUE OF GOVERNMENT BONDS TO FINANCE EXPANSION OF PUBLIC WORKS CONSTRUCTION.

Opposition to a suggestion that "the depression can be broken by a large issue of Federal Government bonds to finance a new program of huge expansion of 'public works' construction, in addition to the already large programs now provided for in the current budgets" was voiced by President Hoover in a letter addressed to the President of the American Society of Civil Engineers. This was a reiteration of the views expressed by him on May 11 and May 12. President Hoover, who indicated that the suggestion for a new bond issue came from a subcommittee of the Society, declared that "the back of the depression cannot be broken by any single Government undertaking. That can only be done," he added, "with the co-operation of business, banking, industry and agriculture in conjunction with the Government." The President listed 12 procedures wherein the Government might aid in effecting business recovery, viz.:

(a) The quick, honest balancing of the Federal budget through drastic reduction of less necessary expenses and the minimum increase in taxes;

(b) The avoidance of issue of further Treasury securities as the keystone of national and international confidence upon which all employment rests;

(c) The continuation of the work of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which has overcome the financial strain on thousands of small banks, releasing credit to their communities, the strengthening of building and loan associations, the furnishing of credit to agriculture, the protection of trustee institutions and the support of financial stability of the railways;

(d) The expansion of credit by the Federal Reserve banks;

(e) The organized translation of these credits into actualities for business and public bodies;

(f) Unceasing effort at sound strengthening of the foundations of agriculture;

(g) The continuation of such public works in aid to unemployment as does not place a strain on the taxpayer and do not necessitate Government borrowing;

(h) Continuation of national community and individual efforts in relief of distress;

(i) The introduction of the five-day week in Government which would save the discharge of 100,000 employees and would add 30,000 to the present list;

(j) The passage of the Home Loan discount bank legislation which would protect home owners from foreclosure and would furnish millions of dollars of employment in home improvement without cost to the Treasury;

(k) Financial aid by means of loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to such States as, due to the long strain, are unable to continue to finance distress relief;

(l) The estension of the authority of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation not only in a particular I called attention to last December—that is, loans on sound security where they would sustain and expand employment—but also in view of the further contraction of credit to increase its authority to expand the issue of its own securities up to $3,000,000,000 for the purpose of organized aid to "income producing" works throughout the Nation, both of public and private character.

According to the President, "the vice in that segment of the proposals made by your Society and others for further expansion of 'public works' is that they include public works of remote usefulness; they impose unbearable burdens upon the taxpayer; they unbalance the budget and demoralize Government credit. A larger and far more effective relief to unemployment at this stage can be secured by increased aid to 'income-producing works.' The proposal to build non-productive 'public works' of the category I have described," says the President, "necessitates making increased appropriations by the Congress. These appropriations must be financed by immediate increased taxation or by the issuance of Government bonds. . . . If such a course is adopted beyond the amounts already provided in the budget now before Congress for the next fiscal year, it will upset all possibility of balancing the budget; it will destroy confidence in Government securities and make for the instability of the Government which in result will deprive more people of employment than will be gained."

Complete accord with President Hoover in his insistence upon the need for actual and rapid balancing of the budget and for extension of credit relief was expressed in a statement issued here in New York on May 23 by the American Society of Civil Engineers, to which the President addressed his letter of May 22 regarding the proposals for Federal bond issues to finance a huge expansion of public works as part of a relief program. At the same time, the Society pointed out that several statements which the President's letter mentioned as coming from it did not in fact originate with the Society.

APPEAL TO CONGRESS BY DEMOCRATIC AND REPUBLICAN LEADERS FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION ON BUDGET AND TAX BILL—NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER AND ALFRED E. SMITH AMONG SIGNERS.

An appeal to members of both branches of Congress to lay aside every form of partisanship and unite quickly to adopt a balanced Federal budget and to enact a sound and fair plan of taxation was made public on May 22 over the signatures of 11 prominent citizens, six of them Republicans and five Democrats. The appeal was in the form of a brief letter posted on Saturday, May 21, to the majority and minority leaders of both the Senate and the House of Representatives, and said:

"The undersigned view with so much concern the possible effect upon our social and political institutions of the grave economic and financial problems which confront the American people that on behalf of vast numbers of our fellow citizens, we appeal through you to the members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives to lay aside every form of partisanship and of possible partisan advantage and quickly to unite to adopt a balanced Federal budget for the coming fiscal year, as well as to enact a plan of taxation which shall be economically sound, fair to every group and calling and without discrimination or privilege or class or sectional advantage of any kind.

"It is our judgment that conditions are so grave that this action should be taken at the earliest possible moment.

PRESIDENT HOOVER SWEEPINGLY CONDEMNS PROPOSED EMERGENCY RELIEF PROGRAM SPONSORED BY SPEAKER GARNER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND CALLING FOR FEDERAL AID OF $2,100,000,000.

In a caucus of the majority members of the House of Representatives, on May 26, the $2,100,000,000 proposed emergency relief program sponsored by Speaker Garner (Dem.) was approved. (It passed the House of Representatives on June 7 by a vote of 216 to 182.) The bill proposes an authorization of $100,000,000 to be given to the President for his direct use in relieving distress throughout the country; it provides $1,000,000,000 additional capital for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to be used in making loans to stimulate employment and also provides for a bond issue of $1,000,000,000 to make money available for rivers and harbors projects already authorized and to be authorized, and for public buildings, roads and flood control. Taking notice of this measure, President Hoover, in what the Washington correspondent of the New York "Times" termed the strongest language the President had used since becoming Chief Executive, denounced the Garner unemployment relief bill on May 27 as "the most gigantic pork-barrel ever proposed to the American Congress" and "an unexampled raid on the public treasury." In his statement on the subject, he said, among other things:

A total of over 3,500 projects of various kinds are proposed in this bill, scattered into every quarter of the United States. Many of these projects have heretofore been discredited by Congress because of useless extravagance involved. Many were originally authorized as justified only in the long distant future. I do not believe that 20% could be brought to the stage of employment for a year. I am advised by the engineers that the amount of labor required to complete a group of $400,000,000 of these works would amount to only 100,000 men for one year, because they are in large degree mechanical jobs.

This is no unemployment relief. It is the most gigantic pork barrel ever proposed to the American Congress. It is an unexampled raid on the public treasury.

Detailed lists of all these projects have been broadcast to every part of the country during the past 24 hours, to the cities, towns, villages and sections who would receive a portion of this pork barrel. It is apparently expected that the cupidity of these towns and sections will demand that their Congressmen and Senators vote for this bill or threaten to penalize them if they fail to join in this squandering of money.

I just do not believe that such lack of intelligence or cupidity exists amongst the people of our United States. If that shall prove true, then this is not the United States that had the intelligence to frame the Constitution of this Republic, which fought the War of the Revolution, or the Civil War, or the World War, that it might be forged into the greatest nation of the world, the whole foundations of which are common sense, honesty, character and idealism.

Our nation was not founded on the pork barrel, and it has not become great by political log-rolling. I hope that those many members of Congress of both parties who, I know, will oppose this bill will receive the definite support of the people in their districts in resisting it.

Asserting that his unemployment relief bill is not a "pork-barrel," as declared by President Hoover, Speaker Garner of the House on May 30 stated that apparently the President's opposition "arises from the fact that expenditures under this program will not be centered in a few localities and that the relief and benefits arising therefrom will be widely disseminated." Speaker Garner also said:

It is true that the public works program covers every section of the United States—and that is what we want to do. There is no part of the country that has not felt the blight of the depression, and this program is proposed with a view of extending unemployment relief to every section as well as broadening the functions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the purpose of extending aid to small business men, the smaller industries, and the States, counties and cities which have been unable to finance needed public works.

I realize as well as does the President that the necessity of balancing the budget is urgent, and I have consistently urged this since before Congress convened; but aid for the destitute, unemployment relief, and also aid for the small businessman and small industries are equally urgent. This relief bill does not interfere with the balancing of the budget. It provides the tax necessary to pay its own way, and will not add to the existing deficit.

TAX BILL TO BALANCE FEDERAL BUDGET NOT PASSED BY UNITED STATES SENATE UNTIL LAST DAY OF MAY, AFTER PERSONAL PLEA OF PRESIDENT HOOVER.

Only slow progress was made in the Senate with the tax bill for balancing the Federal budget, and it was not until the last day of May, or, to be exact, the early morning of June 1, that the measure in its amended form was adopted. It then went immediately to conference committees of the two houses of Congress. In his efforts to hasten action on pending legislation, and more particularly the tax bill, President Hoover cut short on Sunday night, May 29, his Memorial Day week-end at Rapidan Camp, unexpectedly returning to the White House, to which he summoned Republican Senate leaders for a conference. On May 30 President Hoover called Democratic members of the Senate Finance and Economy Committees into conference at the White House at night in an effort to reach an agreement that would move the Government's fiscal program ahead at a still faster pace. The New York "Times" said:

There remained more than $200,000,000 in items enacted by the House which had not been included in the Senate bill, and it was the belief of the Democratic leaders that the new revenue necessary to balance the budget would come out of shuffling these two measures.

It was impressed upon them by Secretary Mills, Charles G. Dawes, President of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Owen D. Young, who also attended the conference, that probably $200,000,000 above the Senate bill would have to be supplied.

The same paper, reporting the Senate action, May 30, said:

A safe majority withstood all attempts of members to increase the stock transfer tax. The flat rate of 4 cents a share, as recommended by the Treasury, was adopted in place of the House provision for a levy of ¼ of 1% of the value involved. Senator Dill offered an amendment to make the tax ½ of 1%, which was defeated 44 to 37, and Senator Wheeler was turned down 47 to 32 on his proposal to raise the levy to 6 cents a share.

The Senate refused to go along with the Finance Committee in exempting loans of stock from the 4% tax. Under the persuasion that such a tax would be, in effect, a levy upon shares used to cover short sales, the Senate voted, 40 to 37, to strike out this exemption, upon motion of Senator Walsh of Montana. . . .

The La Guardia amendment, written into the House bill as a result of threats to move the New York Stock Exchange to Canada, also was stricken out. The vote was 54 to 26 in favor of the Committee amendment which eliminated it.

The section provided that the stock tax should be paid the United States Treasury whenever a concession of this country was involved in any way, as seller, buyer or agent, in any stock transaction, regardless of where the trade might be consummated.

A tax on oil pipe line transportation of oil and gasoline, amounting to 3% of the transportation charges, also was adopted. The House had adopted a charge of 8%.

The Finance Committee's proposed reduction of the bond transfer levy from ½ of 1% as passed by the House to 4 cents for $100 par value, was approved without record vote.

The bill was either right at the finish line or in for a prolonged muddle when the Senate recessed at 7.20 p. m. Practically all the Committee amendments had been approved and motions to reconsider were pending largely on the outcome of the vote on the Connally amendment to-morrow.

The Senate reaffirmed during the day its previous approval of the "stock losses limitation" section, providing that stock losses may be deducted from taxable income only to the extent of gains in similar transactions during the same calendar year.

The Senate amended the House provision so as to allow losses on securities held for more than two years, or so-called "capital assets," to be handled as under the present law.

Anti-Bonus Proposals Approved.

The body also approved the two Gore amendments designed to discourage the payment of large salaries and bonuses. One of these provided that, on any compensation above $75,000 a year received by any officer, director or employee of a corporation, the excess should be taxed at the rate of 80%. The other would disallow the excess above $75,000, paid to any individual, as an ordinary expense item in the corporation's income tax return.

As to the principal changes made by the Senate in the bill as it came originally from the House, these were well outlined in a news dispatch, as follows:

The income tax rates were raised to their highest point since 1922. In fact, the rates applicable for that year formed the basis of the amendment of Senator Connally, Texas Democrat, adopted just before the Senate started its final rush to completion of the bill. Senator Connally went farther in his proposal, however, in the matter of surtaxes, raising the maximum from 49% on income in excess of $200,000 to 55% on the excess over $1,000,000.

The individual normal tax rates as adopted were 4% on the first $4,000 of income and 8% on the remainder, whereas the House bill carried three brackets of 2, 4 and 7%. The present rates are 1½, 3 and 5%.

Omits Earned Income Credit.

The Senate bill eliminated the provision for earned income credit and fixed the personal exemption at $1,000 for a single man and $2,500 for a married man, with the provision that if the net income of the married person was in excess of $5,000 the exemption would be but $2,000.

The corporation tax rate in the Senate bill is 14%, as compared with 13½ in the House bill and 12 in the present law. No penalty was voted for making consolidated returns. In a House bill there was a penalty of 1½%. [In conference these rates and provisions were changed.—Ed.]

The postal increases consisted of a rate of three cents for first-class mail and a return to the 1922 schedule for the second-class. The latter was: For the first and second zones, 2 cents a pound; for the third zone, 3 cents; for the fourth zone, 5 cents; for the fifth zone, 6 cents; for the sixth zone, 7 cents; for the seventh zone, 9 cents, and for the eighth zone and between the Philippine Islands and any part of the United States and its Territories, 10 cents.

The principal general administrative change in the present tax system had to do with preventing the charging off against taxable incomes of an undue amount of security losses in the declining market.

A specific provision was carried in the bill. It provided that losses during any one year on securities held for less than two years, could be deducted from taxable income only to the extent of gains in similar transactions. The Senate bill carried a modifying provision allowing a taxpayer to carry forward an excessive loss into one succeeding year.

List of Excise Taxes.

Included in the excises, all based on manufacturers' selling price, are the following:

Gasoline, one cent a gallon.

Electricity distributions, 3%, on privately operated utilities.

Lubricating oil, 4 cents a gallon.

Radio and phonograph equipment and accessories, 5%.

Automobiles—passenger cars, 3%; trucks and accessories, 2%.

Home brew ingredients—brewers' wort, 5 cents a gallon; malt syrup, 35 cents a gallon; grape concentrates, 40%.

Cosmetics, 10%.

Jewelry, 10%.

Sporting goods and cameras, 10%.

Firearms and ammunition, 10%.

Mechanical refrigerators, 5%.

Matches, 2 cents a thousand on wooden and ½ cent a thousand on paper.

Candy, 5%.

Chewing gum, 2%.

Soft drinks—cereal beverages, 2 cents a gallon; unfermented fruit juices, 2 cents a gallon; fountain syrups, 9 cents a gallon; carbonic gas, 4 cents a lb.

Motor boats and yachts—annual operating tax on graduated scale, beginning with $10 on craft less than 50 feet and increasing to $200 on craft of more than 200 feet.

Furs, 10%.

Tires and tubes—2.25 cents a pound on casings and 4 cents a pound on inner tubes.

Boosts Stock Transfer Tax.

The excise schedule was supplemental by a group of miscellaneous taxes. In this group was the stock transfer tax, which the Senate placed at 4 cents a share instead of ¼ of 1% as carried in the House bill.

A bond transfer tax also was carried in this section at the rate of four cents for each $100 par value instead of one-fourth of 1% as passed by the House.

Other items in the miscellaneous tax group included:

Admission—10% on all admissions of 41 cents and more.

Telephone, telegraph, radio and cable messages—10 cents on telephone messages costing 50 cents to $1; 15 cents, $1 to $2; 20 cents, $2 and more; telegraph messages, a tax of 5% on all messages, with a 5% levy also on rental charges of leased wires except for newspapers and news services and radio broadcasting companies when broadcasting non-commercial programs; cable and radio messages, 10 cents each.

Bank checks—Two cents for each check and draft.

Safe deposit boxes—10% of rental value.

Capital stock and bond issues—10 cents for each $100 par value.

Real estate conveyances—50 cents on $100 to $500 value involved, and 50 cents for each $500 in excess of the first $500.

Carries Four Tariff Items.

The Senate bill carried four strictly tariff items, including duties on coal and oil which were voted in the House. The four tariffs were:

Oil—2½ cents a gallon on gasoline; ½ cent a gallon on crude and fuel oil; 4 cents a gallon on lubricating oil; 1 cent a pound on paraffin and 10 cents a 100 pounds on asphalt and bitumen.

Coal—10 cents 100 pounds.

Lumber—$3 per 1,000 board feet in addition to rates under the Smoot Hawley Tariff Act.

Copper—3 cents a pound.

The Senate bill carried the identical estate and gift taxes of the House measure.

Several notable departures were made in the Senate bill from the measure passed by the House. One of the most far reaching was the modification of the net loss carry-over which the House had eliminated entirely. The Senate bill restored this provision, operative for one year. Another notable change was the elimination by the Senate of the normal tax on dividends from stock, which the House passed during the closing hours of its consideration of the bill.

The Senate also struck from the House bill the estate revaluation clause which would allow an estate to be revalued 18 months after death of the decedent.

BANKERS AND INDUSTRIALISTS NAMED AS COMMITTEE OF 12 TO CO-OPERATE WITH RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION TO FURTHER CREDIT EXPANSION—OWEN D. YOUNG, CHAIRMAN.

Under the Chairmanship of Owen D. Young, a committee of 12 was named on May 19 consisting of bankers and industrialists, to co-operate with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other agencies to widen the use of Federal Reserve credit. The announcement of the move was made on May 19 by George L. Harrison, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in a statement reading:

Governor Harrison of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has called together a committee composed of bankers and industrialists for the purpose of considering methods of making the large funds now being released by the Federal Reserve banks useful affirmatively in developing business.

Its purpose also will be generally to co-operate with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other agencies to secure more co-ordinated and so more effective action on the part of the banking and industrial interests.

The Committee held its first meeting this afternoon at the Federal Reserve Bank.

The membership of the Committee, which may be enlarged later, is as follows:

Owen D. Young, Chairman, General Electric Co.
Mortimer N. Buckner, Chairman, New York Trust Co.
Floyd L. Carlisle, Chairman, Consolidated Gas Co.
Walter S. Gifford, President, American Tel. & Tel. Co.
Charles E. Mitchell, Chairman, National City Bank.
William C. Potter, President, Guaranty Trust Co.
Jackson E. Reynolds, President, First National Bank.
Alfred P. Sloan Jr., President, General Motors Corp.
Walter C. Teagle, President, Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.
A. A. Tilney, Chairman, Bankers Trust Co.
Albert H. Wiggin, Chairman of Governing Board, Chase National Bank.
Clarence M. Woolley, Chairman, American Radiator & Standard Sanitary Corp.

Press accounts of the meeting in Washington the same week of the Governors of the 12 Federal Reserve banks indicated that Governor Harrison of the New York Reserve Bank had conferred (May 16) with Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Secretary of the Treasury Mills. Both Messrs. Mills and Meyer are said to have later in the week been visitors to New York. The Washington correspondent of the New York "Times," in noting this, May 19, said:

Information reaching the capital of the organization of a committee of leading industrialists to put to work the hundreds of millions of dollars in credit, released by the Reserve banks in the last six weeks, explained to observers here the suden visit to New York yesterday and to-day of Secretary Mills and Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Reserve Board.

Mr. Mills returned to Washington late to-day. The understanding was that he had conferred with President Hoover relative to the formation of the super-committee and that the President was in accord with the idea.

It is a well-known fact that the President had been disturbed at the apparent lack of co-operation of the commercial banks of the country in the credit expansion drive.

Complaint Made of the Banks.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, organized partially as a stabilizer to the banks in order that they might feel free to make more liberal extensions of credit, has already loaned half a billion dollars, a considerable portion going to the financial institutions. The Federal Reserve banks through open market operations have liberated more than half a billion dollars in the last six weeks through the purchase of Government securities.

On the other hand, it is asserted, the banks have not passed the benefits of these relief measures on to their customers, although the banks maintain that there is no demand for commercial loans. This was one of the problems discussed at the recent meeting of the Governors of the Federal Reserve banks which decreed a continuation of the open market policy.

The New York "Herald Tribune" of May 20, indicating that Messrs. Mills and Meyer had participated in the initial meeting of the committee of 12 on May 19, said:

For some time past it has been common knowledge that Mr. Hoover was giving earnest attention to the apparent failure of commercial banks to give aid in the official efforts to expand credit throughout the country.

The nature of the work which the Committee has to do is made clear in the recent statements of the Federal Reserve System. Since late February the System has been buying Government securities, first at the rate of $25,000,000 a week, and more recently at the rate of $100,000,000 a week. The result of these unprecedentedly heavy purchases of Government securities has been the building up of $300,000,000 of excess member bank reserves, of which approximately $175,000,000 is concentrated in New York.

Three Billion Credit Basis Laid.

These excess reserves could form the basis for $3,000,000,000 of member bank credit. But the banks have been slow in putting the potential credit to work. New York banks have been buying bonds in a halting fashion in recent weeks, but out-of-town banks have not yet joined in the movement.

The Federal Reserve System is understood to believe that a genuine stimulation could be given business if borrowers and lenders could be brought together and this large amount of credit put to work. On Tuesday the governors of the 12 Federal Reserve banks met in Washington with the Federal Reserve Board to discuss means of increasing the volume of bank credit.

Following the meeting Governor Meyer said that the Governors would return to their districts determined to devise means of getting banks to use their credit resources. The appointment of the Young Committee by Governor Harrison was looked on as the method the Federal Reserve Bank in this district will use to achieve this result.

President Hoover on May 20 issued a statement expressing his gratification at the action taken in New York in the appointment of a committee of 12 bankers and industrialists to co-operate with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other agencies to widen the use of Federal Reserve credit. President Hoover said:

I am much gratified at the action taken in New York by which a joint committee has been appointed representing financial and industrial leaders of that city for the purpose, among other things, of securing that the expansion of credit facilities made available through the Federal Reserve banks and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation shall be translated into industry, employment and agriculture.

I am in hopes that similar action may be taken in other Federal Reserve Districts. It would seem desirable that the Governors of the different Federal Reserve banks should proceed in a similar manner, and as soon as the chairmen of such committees are known I shall be glad to invite them to Washington in order that the whole program may be set up on a National basis.

The "United States Daily" of May 21 said that other committees of industrialists and financiers such as that formed in New York, May 19, by Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, might well be organized in other Reserve Districts, but the New York Committee was not necessarily restricted to that District, Ogden L. Mills, the Secretary of the Treasury, had stated orally May 20.

The newly formed committee of bankers and industrialists was called into session on May 23, for the first time since its formation on May 19.

A group of subcommittees to evolve and perfect specific projects for putting excess bank reserves to active use was then appointed by the Committee. Following the meeting, which was held in the building of the Federal Reserve Bank, an unofficial spokesman briefly stated that subcommittees had been formed and that the group would meet again the next afternoon, but that at present no statement could be made as to how far specific projects had been perfected for subcommittees to work upon, or whether they were formed in order to explore the possibilities of vague projects which the entire group might be called upon later to consider.

Indicating that the proposal to form a bond pool, which has been under discussion by leading bankers for months, will be brought before the Young Committee at an early meeting the "Journal of Commerce" of May 27 stated:

A special subcommittee was appointed last week to study and to report upon the question of whether the formation of a bond pool would be practical at the present time, and it is expected that the report will be delivered to the general committee.

It was pointed out that a favorable subcommittee report would not necessarily indicate that the entire committee would favor such a plan. It has been frequently indicated that the different members of the Young committee hold conflicting views on whether organized bond purchases are desirable at all. Among those who favor such purchases, there are varying opinions as to the methods by which the buying should be carried on.

At a meeting of representative bankers and business men at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, on May 25, it was decided to appoint a committee to consider ways and means of making more effective the Federal Reserve System's open market policy and of stimulating business. In accordance with this decision, James B. McDougal, Governor of the Chicago Reserve Bank, appointed a committee of 11 members, headed by Sewell L. Avery as Chairman. In addition to the bankers and industrialists from the Seventh Reserve District and officials of the Chicago Reserve Bank present at the meeting, the conference was attended by Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, and Eugene Meyer, Jr., Governor of the Federal Reserve Board. Mr. Mills and Mr. Meyer came to Chicago at the request of the local group and boarded a train shortly after the close of the meeting to return to the national capital. Prior to the conference Mr. Mills stated that he and Mr. Meyer had come to Chicago with the expectation of laying before the local group their opinion on the outlook from the Washington viewpoint. It was also stated that besides the New York committee headed by Owen D. Young and the Chicago group, similar action had been taken in St. Louis, but that while some degree of co-operation between the several groups was logical, the variation in problems to be solved in the 12 districts indicated that no closely-knit central organization of the various committees would be developed.

MEETING IN WASHINGTON OF GOVERNORS OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS—CONTINUANCE OF OPEN MARKET POLICY AS CREDIT STIMULANT.

The Governors of the 12 Federal Reserve banks met with the Federal Reserve Board at Washington on May 17, and the Board issued a statement saying that the policy of open market purchases of United States Government securities would be continued. The statement reads:

Governors of the Federal Reserve banks met to-day with the Federal Reserve Board and it was decided to continue open-market operations by the purchase of Government securities, the extent and amount to be determined from time to time as conditions justify.

The Washington correspondent of the New York "Journal of Commerce," in its account of the meeting, May 17, said:

Officials who attended the meeting including Secretary Mills, ex-officio Chairman of the Board; Gov. Eugene Meyer of the Board; Gov. George L. Harrison, of New York Reserve Bank, and others declined to amplify the formal announcement. They said it spoke for itself.

Observers, however, interpreted the statement to leave the way open for the Open Market Committee of the System, consisting of the Governors, to slow down the volume of purchases from the $100,000,000 a week prevailing in the last five weeks, if conditions justify.

It was noticed that the purchases of Government securities slowed down after this meeting. They had been averaging $100,000,000 a week, but in the week ending May 18 were $81,136,000, in the week ending May 25 dropped to $58,793,000 and in the week ending June 1, were $50,004,000.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM AVAILS OF PROVISION OF GLASS-STEAGALL ACT TO USE UNITED STATES SECURITIES AS PART COLLATERAL FOR FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES.

The authority granted by the Glass-Steagall Bill for the use of Government securities as part collateral for Federal Reserve notes was employed for the first time by the Reserve banks in the week ended May 11, when $97,300,000 in United States obligations was so pledged with the Reserve agents. A further $51,000,000 was so used in the week ending May 18, $48,100,000 in the week ending May 25, and $66,900,000 in the week ending June 1, making a total of $263,300,000 at the latter date. The continued purchases of Government securities with the prodigious exports of gold made the step a necessity. A statement from the Federal Reserve Board said the authorization for the use of Government obligations as collateral back of the notes had been given on May 5, after a careful consideration of the various factors involved. The Board found that the Federal Reserve banks had been forced to draw on their operating margin of gold for pledges with the Reserve agents as note backing, in the absence of available eligible paper, and that it was therefore deemed in the public interest to authorize the use of Government securities. The statement of the Federal Reserve Board follows, in part:

This increase in the amount of gold pledged with the agents and the corresponding decrease in reserves available against deposits reduced the margin of gold available for operating purposes to a point where the Federal Reserve Board found it necessary to consider whether it would be in the public interest under the terms of the Glass-Steagall Act. which permits such action until March 3 1933, to authorize the Federal Reserve banks to offer and the Federal Reserve agents to accept direct obligations of the United States Government as collateral against outstanding Federal Reserve notes.

Before giving this authorization, which was done on May 5, the Federal Reserve Board carefully considered the question of the principle upon which this action should properly be based and of a formula that would carry out this principle in an efficient manner with due regard to the position of each of the 12 Federal Reserve banks.

The principle upon which the Board has proceeded is that the authority to pledge obligations of the United States Government should be exercised when, after the available eligible paper has been pledged with the Federal Reserve agents, the operating margin of gold at the Reserve banks shall have declined to a level which it is necessary to maintain in order to assure the efficient functioning of the Reserve banks.

Formula Based on Ratio.

The formula used in determining the operating margin to be maintained has been derived from a consideration of the legal and operating requirements within which the Reserve banks have to function, including the requirements of 100% collateral, consisting of gold and eligible paper, for outstanding Federal Reserve notes.

On May 4 the notes outstanding were $2,736,000,000 and the eligible paper available as collateral was $510,000,000, leaving $2,226,000,000 to be covered by gold. This gold, which, under the law, can be counted not only as collateral but also as reserve against Federal Reserve notes, was more than ample to provide the 40% reserve required against Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation.

When this gold is deducted from the total cash reserves of the Federal Reserve banks, the remaining reserves, $977,000,000, must provide the 35% necessary against the Reserve banks' deposits, the amount necessary for the redemption fund held with the United States Treasury and such a margin above these amounts as would permit of efficient operation without delay or inconvenience.

Margin Is Set at $400,000,000.

In determining upon a formula derived from these considerations the Board decided that in existing circumstances, when the margin between (1) total cash reserves of the Reserve banks (in excess of the 35% against deposits), plus eligible paper at the 12 Federal Reserve banks, and (2) Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation shall fall below $400,000,000, the Reserve banks shall be authorized to pledge a sufficient amount of United States Government securities with the Federal Reserve agents to release enough gold to bring this margin up to the $400,000,000 level.

This margin of $400,000,000 is considered adequate to provide for (1) enough Federal Reserve notes in the vaults of the Reserve banks and branches to meet necessary operating requirements, (2) the redemption fund with the United States Treasury, (3) a reasonable margin above the required 35% reserve against deposits, and (4) a slight margin above the necessary collateral requirements against Federal Reserve notes.

In adopting $400,000,000 as the operating margin for the 12 Federal Reserve banks combined, the Federal Reserve Board has notified each bank of the amount that would be a reasonable margin for that bank in proportion to its requirements and its volume of operations.

In practice, this decision of the Federal Reserve Board will mean that whenever a Federal Reserve bank shall find, after having pledged its available eligible paper, that its operating margin has fallen below the amount determined for that bank, it may pledge with its Federal Reserve agent enough United States securities to release an amount of gold that will bring the margin up to the specified amount.

In adopting this principle and this formula for determining the time and the extent of use of the authority granted under Section 3 of the Glass-Steagall bill, the Board has prescribed for the Federal Reserve banks a mode of procedure by which they can determine quickly, at any time, the extent to which they may avail themselves of the authority under the law to pledge United States securities as collateral for Federal Reserve notes.

For the System as a whole the Board has adopted the principle that, in the present circumstances, it deems it in the public interest to authorize the use of United States obligations as collateral against Federal Reserve notes at such times and to such extent as may be necessary to enable the Reserve banks to have available at all times a sufficient amount of Federal Reserve notes and of gold not pledged as collateral to permit of unhampered operation of the Federal Reserve System.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AT WASHINGTON PASSES GOLDSBOROUGH BILL DIRECTING RESERVE AUTHORITIES TO EMPLOY THEIR CONTROL OVER CREDIT TO RESTORE WHOLESALE COMMODITY PRICES TO THE LEVEL OF THE YEARS 1921 TO 1926.

The House of Representatives on May 2, by the overwhelming vote of 289 to 60, passed what is known as the Goldsborough Bill, directing the Federal Reserve System to employ its control over credit and currency in an effort to restore prices to about the 1926 level. The bill is a short one, but far-reaching in its application and possible consequences. In its full text it reads as follows:

A BILL.

For restoring and maintaining the purchasing power of the dollar.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the Federal Reserve Act is amended by adding at the end thereof a new section to read as follows:

"Sec. 31. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States that the average purchasing power of the dollar as ascertained by the Department of Labor in the wholesale commodity markets for the period covering the years 1921 to 1929, inclusive, shall be restored and maintained by the control of the volume of credit and currency."

Sec. 2. The Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Reserve banks and the Secretary of the Treasury are hereby charged with the duty of making effective this policy.

Sec. 3. Acts and parts of Acts inconsistent with the terms of this Act are hereby repealed.

The first effect of the passage of the bill by the House was to cause a rise in the foreign exchange rates here at New York on all the leading financial centers of Europe and to accentuate the exports of gold, which finally reached prodigious proportions, aggregating for the month no less than $235,600,000 (including $22,100,000 added to the earmarked stock during the month), financial circles in Europe being deeply disturbed by the large purchases of Government securities by the Federal Reserve banks and the propositions before Congress requiring further issues of Government bonds.

GOVERNOR MEYER OF FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD SAYS UNITED STATES WILL MAINTAIN GOLD STANDARD—GOLDSBOROUGH PRICE STABILIZATION BILL OPPOSED—A. C. MILLER OF RESERVE BOARD ALSO HEARD BY SENATE COMMITTEE—MR. MEYER SAYS RESERVE GOVERNORS WERE ADVISED TO PUSH CREDIT IN BEHALF OF BUSINESS—OPEN MARKET POLICIES.

At a hearing on May 17 before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, made known his opposition to the Goldsborough Bill (directing the Federal Reserve System to act in stabilizing the purchasing power of the dollar), and at the same time, in response to a question from Senator John J. Blaine, Jr. (Republican), of Wisconsin, Mr. Meyer asserted, "There is not the slightest doubt in the mind of any responsible official about either the ability or the intention of the United States to stay on the gold standard." He added that every nation that had gone off the gold standard wanted to get back on it as soon as possible. Opposition to the Goldsborough Bill (we quote from the "United States Daily") was also expressed on May 18 by Adolph C. Miller, member of the Federal Reserve Board, who further asserted that in order to repair "the breakdown in the organization of the world which is the most colossal in 100 years," we should "exercise a little patience, a little forbearance, have more faith in recovery through normal processes, and where we can expedite latter." According to the Washington correspondent of the New York "Times," Mr. Meyer on May 18 disclosed that the Reserve Board on May 17 instructed the Governors of the 12 Reserve banks to go home and find ways and means of spreading credit according to the Board's present policy.

CARTER GLASS "TENTATIVELY" SUGGESTS GIVING UNITED STATES BONDS THE CIRCULATION PRIVILEGE SO AS TO PERMIT BANK NOTE INFLATION.

Temporary currency inflation based on United States Government bonds was tentatively suggested on May 24 by Senator Carter Glass as a substitute for the Goldsborough Bill to stabilize the dollar on a 1921 to 1929 purchasing level, and on June 1 the Senate Banking and Currency Committee reported the proposal as a substitute for the Goldsborough Bill. A dispatch, May 24, from Washington to the New York "Times" outlined the attitude of Senator Glass as follows:

Vigorously opposing the Goldsborough program as "futile and ineffective," Mr. Glass urged the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to consider some "feasible" substitute, and therefore suggested the bond platform, to which, he explained, he was by no means absolutely committed.

Briefly, Mr. Glass has in mind a scheme of "diffusive" inflation, whereby outstanding government bonds could be designated for the same circulation privilege now enjoyed by the 2% consols of 1930, or "Panama 2s," as they are known. Under this plan a national bank possessing $100,000 worth of bonds might "for a restricted period of time" be able to obtain $95,000 in bank notes, as may be done with the "Panama 2s."

Senator Glass considers that the purpose of the Goldsborough bill is impossible to realize, and he also told the Committee that he was unwilling to give "any seven men that God created" the power proposed in the plan. Further, he believes the bill would work great hardship upon the consuming public, by increasing living costs.

"Increasing commodity prices by legislative mandate would affect every consumer, and there are thousands of consumers to every producer," he said this afternoon.

In emphatic fashion he denounced the bill to the Committee, and said also that the present government security-buying program of the Federal Reserve Board was "indirect and futile" if not really dangerous.

"If inflation of credit and currency is the real cure for the existing situation and we must have inflation," he told the Committee, "we should proceed about it in a direct and unmistakable way and not in the indirect and utterly futile, if not dangerous, way now being employed by the Federal Reserve authorities," he went on.

Suggests "Diffusive" Inflation.

"In short, I suggest that it would be infinitely better to authorize a plan of 'diffusive' inflation by designating some series of outstanding United States bonds for the same circulation privileges which Panama 2s now have. This would enable national banks throughout the country, for such restricted period of time as might be determined, to increase the volume of bank notes in order to meet the requirements of legitimate business.

"According to my motion, this would be vastly preferable to the threatening scheme now being employed by the Federal Reserve System of concentrating relief in the great money centres with the vain hope and expectation that it will trickle down into the smaller communities throughout the country.

"The plan suggested, purely to tide over the existing emergency would enable every national bank to utilize its holdings of United States bonds for such controlled inflationary purposes as current business would justify and it would put all national banks in all sections of the country upon equal terms in the matter of expansion.

"I do not pretend to say that this would be an absolute cure for the existing situation, but I do insist that it is more equitable than anything which has been proposed or that is being attempted.

"My own orthodox view is that when an individual, community or nation embarks upon an era of wicked extravagance it must eventually pay the penalty. This cannot be avoided by fictitious devices, legislative or otherwise."

THE STEAGALL BANK BILL CREATING A $400,000,000 FUND TO GUARANTEE BANK DEPOSITS PASSES THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Without a record vote the House of Representatives at Washington, May 27, passed the bill of Representative Steagall amending the National Bank Act and the Federal Reserve Act, and providing, among other things, for the guaranty of bank deposits through the creation of a Guaranty Fund for $1,000,000,000. Provisions of the bill were summarized as follows in the Associated Press dispatches, May 27:

The bill proposes the establishment of a $1,000,000,000 fund to guarantee deposits, obtainable in this manner:

$150,000,000 from the Treasury, representing the amount the Treasury has received in franchise taxes.

A $150,000,000 contribution from the $300,000,000 surplus of Reserve banks.

A $100,000,000 assessment upon Reserve member banks; an additional assessment of $100,000,000 a year, if necessary, upon Reserve member banks.

Loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to total $500,000,000, if that much is needed.

If a bank which joined the guaranty fund failed, the Federal liquidating board would be required, within 90 days, to pay to depositors not less than 50% on their deposits if they did not exceed $1,000, and not less than 25% if they did. Within six months a second installment would be paid, covering the balance of $1,000 accounts and 25% on all others. The larger accounts would be paid in two more six-month installments of 25%.

The bill also would—

Prevent organization hereafter of National banks having a minimum capital stock of less than $50,000.

Prohibit the payment of dividends by National banks except upon the basis of the surplus.

Require Federal Reserve banks to give immediate credit on checks drawn against them by members, but permit charging the current interest rate until the checks were collected.

Provide that stockholders in National banks can be held responsible for double liability one year, instead of 60 days, after a transfer of their stock.

Authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to issue such securities as may be necessary to provide all, or part of, the $500,000,000; require that the Corporation's loans shall be made to the liquidating board without security.

PRESIDENT HOOVER SIGNS BILL MAKING DEBENTURES OF INTERMEDIATE CREDIT BANKS ELIGIBLE FOR REDISCOUNT BY FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS.

President Hoover on May 19 signed an amendment to the Federal Farm Loan Act, widening the powers of Federal Intermediate Credit banks and giving greater latitude in financing the credit needs of farmers. The full text of the measure was printed in the "Financial Chronicle" for May 28, page 3905. The amendment authorizes the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks to accept drafts drawn on them by co-operative marketing associations and permits the rediscount by Federal Reserve banks of notes discounted by the Intermediate Banking members. Commenting upon President Hoover's signing of the bill on May 19 making the debentures of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks eligible for 15-day loans by the Federal Reserve banks to banks which are members of the Reserve System, Charles R. Dunn, Fiscal Agent for the Intermediate Credit institutions, who directs their public financing from New York, said on May 21:

"This is a long hoped-for step in the right direction, as it will not only facilitate the future financing of the Intermediate Credit Banks, but will also cut the cost of borrowing by the farmer who pays as high as 9% under existing conditions. It was an oversight that the debentures were not made eligible when the bill creating the Intermediate Credit Banks was passed in 1923."

Short-term financing is engaged in by the Intermediate Credit Banks monthly, and although the Reconstruction Finance Corporation offered to subscribe for any unsubscribed portion of the debentures offered in recent months, that has not been necessary owing to the public demand for the debentures that has existed up to the present.

All but one of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks have reduced their interest charges recently to farmers' co-operative marketing associations and to financing institutions offering eligible agricultural paper to them for discount, as a result of the passage of the Norbeck-Steagall Bill through Congress and its signatures by President Hoover, May 19, according to an announcement issued May 24 in behalf of the Intermediate Credit Banks.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR SOUTHERN MINNESOTA JOINT STOCK LAND BANK—DEFAULT ON MAY 1 BOND INTEREST.

Announcement that the Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land Bank had failed to meet its May 1 interest requirements on some of its bonds was made at Washington on May 2 by Paul Bestor, Chairman of the Federal Farm Loan Board. Mr. Bestor was quoted as saying:

The condition of the Bank was such that the directors found it necessary to suspend further operations and the conclusion was reached that a receivership was the only course open. The Bank is not affiliated with any other Land bank or banking institution.

Roy A. Nelson of Minneapolis was named receiver and instructed to take immediate charge for the purpose of conserving the bank's assets. The bank was organized in 1919 at Redwood Falls, Minn., and in 1926 moved its principal office to Minneapolis.

PRESIDENT HOOVER VETOES BILL AMENDING TARIFF BILL LIMITING PRESIDENT'S POWER RESPECTING FLEXIBLE PROVISIONS —HOUSE SUSTAINS VETO.

On May 11 President Hoover vetoed the bill (H. R. 6662) amending the Tariff Act of 1930, restricting the powers of the President under the flexible provisions. The House on May 11 sustained the veto by a vote of 178 to 166. The objections to the bill cited by the President were (said the "United States Daily"):

1. The misimpression and uncertainty it may convey as to its purpose.
2. It practically destroys the flexible tariff through the removal of Executive authority to render conclusions of the Tariff Commission effective.

Opposes Conference Conditions.

3. The conditions stipulated for action in an international conference which it is proposed should be called to deal with trade questions, because, he said, previous international economic conferences for these identic purposes have resulted in very little accomplishment.
4 The request made in the bill that the President should "negotiate with foreign governments reciprocal trade agreements under a policy of mutual tariff concessions," which, he said, is in direct conflict with the other proposals in the measure.

The bill originally passed the House on Jan. 9 by a vote of 214 to 182, and the Senate on April 1, by a vote of 42 to 30, passed the bill in amended form. The bill went to the President after the House on April 28 had accepted all the Senate amendments.

IMPROVING GRAIN PRICES—WINTER WHEAT CROP DECIDEDLY SHORT.

The course of the grain markets was irregular, but showed growing firmness, mainly, it would seem, on the poor promise of the growing winter wheat crop, particularly in the Southwest, the State of Kansas being especially hard hit in that respect. The Department of Agriculture at Washington on May 10 issued its monthly report showing conditions as of May 1. This estimated the abandonment of winter wheat at 16.6%, leaving the acreage remaining to be harvested at only 32,277,000 acres as compared with 40,432,000 acres harvested in 1931. The May 1 condition was placed at 75.1% of the normal, compared with 90.3 in 1931 and a 10-year average of 83.8%. The yield per acre was placed at 13.7 bushels, making a total production of 440,781,000 bushels, against a yield per acre of 19.2 bushels and a production of 787,465,000 bushels in 1931. Here, then, was a reduction in the size of the crop by 347,000,000 bushels. Condition was below average in nearly all sections of the country except in the area extending from Illinois east and northeast. During the course of May, moreover, conditions remained very poor and unsatisfactory. Prices stiffened somewhat as a result of the publication of this unfavorable report, but quickly weakened again, and about May 14 was at the low point of the month. Thereafter, however, the trend was upward, with some downward reaction again at the close of the month. May wheat at Chicago opened Monday, May 2, at 54⅛c., declined to 52¼c. May 5, recovered to 55¼c. May 9, and touched 56½c. May 11, but then moved downward again, touching 53⅛c. May 14, and then sharply advanced on unfavorable crop news from the Southwest, reaching 60⅜c. May 23, with the close May 31 at 56¼c. per bushel. The July option for wheat at Chicago, after opening May 2 at 57¼c., and touching 58c. the same day, sold down to 54⅝c. May 5, then advanced to 58¾c. May 11, reacted to 55⅛c. May 14, then rose to 61½c. May 23, and closed May 31 at 57⅜c. At Winnipeg, May wheat, after opening at 59⅜c. May 2, after considerable fluctuation touched 64¼c. May 23, with the close May 31 at 62⅜c. Corn and oats also developed some firmness. May corn at Chicago, after opening May 2 at 29⅛c., and selling down to 27⅝c. May 5, rose to 32c. May 23, with the close May 31 at 29c. July corn at Chicago closed May 31 at 30⅞c. against an opening price on May 2 of 32⅞c. May oats at Chicago closed May 31 at 23¾c. against 21⅜c. the opening May 2, and July oats at Chicago closed May 31 at 22¾c. after having opened May 2 at 21⅞c.

Canadian press advices from Ottawa, May 10, stated that without a record vote the House of Commons had on that date defeated a motion to continue the 5c. bonus on export wheat, and had also turned down a suggestion that a bonus be based on seeded acreage. Paris advices on May 23 to the New York "Evening Post" stated that Roumania would supply 10% of France's total annual wheat import needs for the next three years, while Jugoslavia would supply a similar amount under identical decrees published on that day. The world price plus the ordinary duty would be paid, but the difference between the world price and that considered remunerative by exporters is to be refunded up to 30% of the amount of the duty under the terms of annual agreements between the Governments. In return, France gets tariffs concessions in both Rumania and Jugoslavia. The maximum proportion of foreign wheat permitted to be used in the milling of flour in France was reduced from 45% to 40% by a decree published in the French "Journal Officiel" for May 8 1932, according to a radiogram on May 11 to the Department of Commerce at Washington. The proportion had been increased from 40% to 45% on April 2. London heard, May 5, that Russia had turned wheat buyer, having contracted for 40,000 tons of Canadian grain and 7,000 tons of Australian at "ordinary grain cash terms." These reports had it that Russia was in the market for a total of 100,000 tons of wheat, and this was interpreted to indicate that Siberia was short of grain. The Portuguese Government authorized the importation of 35,000 metric tons of wheat during May and June 1932, according to a radiogram received May 18 in the Department of Commerce from the commercial attache at Lisbon.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE SUSPENDS TWO OFFICIALS OF UPDIKE GRAIN CORP. FROM TRADING—CHAIRMAN STONE OF FEDERAL FARM BOARD REPORTED "INTERESTED" IN ACTION.

Two officials of the Updike Grain Co., a subsidiary of the Farmers' National Grain Corp., were suspended on May 25 from membership on the Chicago Board of Trade and the grain company itself was ordered deprived of corporate privileges in the Exchange's clearing house. A dispatch on that date to the New York "Times" explained the action as follows:

The action, voted upon after a two-day session by the Board's directors, brought to a climax the long-standing feud between the Board of Trade and the Federal Farm Board.

The officials hit are Fred J. Thatcher, President of the Updike Grain Co., and J. F. Florentine, Jr., Secretary and Treasurer. Mr. Thatcher is suspended from the Board for five years, and Mr. Florentine for two years. There is no appeal save to the directorate of the Board of Trade.

In withdrawing the corporate privileges of the Updike Grain Co., the directors specified that its action should be effective on June 11. The same date is set for the suspensions.

The charges against both Mr. Thatcher and Mr. Florentine and the Updike Co. were that they had violated rules of the Board. The principal action was based, it was said, on the semi-annual filing of statements. Both men, it was charged, had filed statements on June 1 and Dec. 1 1931, that they owned stock in the Updike company, whereas they owned no stock.

Statement from Board.

The Board of Trade issued to-night the following statement:

"The two officers were guilty of violating certain rules by making false affidavits to the effect that they were owners of stock in the Updike company when in reality this stock had been transferred and sold to the Farmers' National Grain Corp.

"The Farmers' National registered two memberships on the Board of Trade. These memberships entitled them to the same privileges other members enjoy under the Board of Trade rules formulated during the past 80 years.

"Without notice, or without obtaining offer from competing corporations, the Farmers' National purchased all of the stock of the Updike Grain Corp., to do a general commission and futures business through this firm on the floor of the Exchange.

"The Updike company are members of the Board of Trade Clearing Association, and the Farmers' National chose to clear their business through the Updike company.

"It developed that the officers of the Updike company, presumably with the knowledge of the officers of the Farmers' National, concealed in their statements that the Farmers' National was actually owner of the stock when registering their new ownership with the clearing house.

"Geroge S. Milnor, President of the Grain Stabilization Corporation and General Manager of the Farmers' National appeared as one of the counsel in defense of the accused officers of the Updike company. It developed that one of the officers of the Updike company was obtaining all the brokerages on orders which he executed from the Farmers' National in lieu of salary. This testimony was undisputed.

COURSE OF SUGAR AND COFFEE PRICES—SUGAR PRICE CUT BY REFINERS TO 3.75c. A POUND—LOWEST LEVEL SINCE 1914.

The wholesale price of refined sugar was reduced for the third time within a week on May 5 to 3.75c. a pound. The reduction, which was 2½ points, was made by the American Sugar Refining Co., the National Sugar Refining Co., the Pennsylvania Sugar Co., the McCahan (W. J.) Sugar Refining & Molasses Co., the California & Hawaiian Sugar Refining Co., and Arbuckle Bros. The first reduction was made on May 2, when the price was reduced 10 points from 3.90c. to 3.80c. a pound. This reduction, which was the first since April 5, when leading sugar refiners made the price 3.90c. in the hope of increasing the buying of sugar, was also met by the Revere Sugar Refining Co. The second reduction occurred on May 4, when all companies but Arbuckle Bros. and the Revere Co. reduced the price 2½ points to 3.77½c. The Revere Sugar Co. met this reduction on May 5.

The advance of 10 points in refined sugar prices which was announced on May 10 by the American Sugar Refining Co., to become effective May 12, and followed by the Pennsylvania Sugar Co., the Revere Sugar Refining Co., the Henderson Sugar Refinery, the Savannah Sugar Refining Corp., the Godchaux Sugars, Inc., and the Western Sugar Refinery was cancelled on May 11. The increase which had to be general to become effective was not met by the National Sugar Refining Co., the California & Hawaiian Sugar Refining Corp., and Arbuckle Bros. The proposed change which would have brought the price to 3.85c. a pound would have wiped out two-thirds of the reductions made earlier in May.

Cuban raw sugar, which in April had sold down to 0.60c., but recovered to 0.65c., during May on one shipment again touched 0.60c., but the latter part of the month generally brought 0.61½@0.62c.

Coffee prices continued to move upward. The Brazilian Council announced on May 24 that 320,744 sacks of coffee had been destroyed in the preceding week, making the total to date 6,565,641 bags, of which 5,285,282 were destroyed in the State of Sao Paulo. HOG PRICES AT NEW LOW LEVEL SINCE 1896.

Associated Press advices May 25 from Kansas City stated that the lowest top price for hogs in the history of the Kansas City stock yards $2.95 a hundred pounds had been paid that morning. The previous new low record top it was stated was $2.97½ paid one day in September 1896. It was also pointed out that shortly after the World War hog prices reached as high as $23.40 a hundred pounds.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. AND MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. REDUCE PRICES FROM 5 TO 50%.

Continued declines in prices of raw materials and finished products were reflected in the mid-summer sales catalogue of Sears, Roebuck & Co., mailed to customers on May 19, by reductions in prices ranging from 5% to 49% below the previous year on selected items. The following statement was issued by R. E. Wood, President of the company:

The prices in our new sales book carry not alone the reductions that producers of raw materials have been forced to accept because of lack of demand, but as well the lowered cost of manufacturing and the widespread economies we have effected in our own business.

Comparison of textile prices in the new catalogue showed a reduction of 40% from prices in effect in 1929.

Montgomery Ward & Co. also reduced its prices, the reductions ranging from 5 to 50% below the previous summer's levels.

THE TEXTILE MARKETS AND THE COURSE OF SILK AND RUBBER—COTTON STABILIZATION CORP. TO SELL 650,000 BALES OF COTTON IN YEAR BEGINNING AUG. 1 1932.

The textile market during May continued dull, though more seasonable weather brought some scattered increases in retail buying, but not sufficiently so to make any noteworthy change in the situaiton. In cotton goods, as in woolen goods and worsteds, there was regularly curtailed activity. On Monday May 16 the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York made public its usual monthly statement regarding production, shipments, sales and stocks of Carded Cotton Cloths for the month of April, and these showed that production during April had amounted to 205,089,000 yards, which was 10.1% less than the production during the month of March. Sales during April were 102,307,000 yards, equivalent to 49.9% of production. Shipments during the month amounted to 162,104,000 yards, equivalent to 79% of production. Unfilled orders on April 30 were 218,366,000 yards, representing a decrease of 21.5% during the month. Stocks on hand at the end of the month amounted to 302,216,000 yards, an increase during the month of 16.6%, but nevertheless were only 4% greater than at the beginning of the year. The U. S. Census' monthly figures, issued May 14, showed only 367,280 bales of lint cotton and 50,936 bales of linters consumed in the United States during April, compared with 508,691 bales of lint and 67,415 bales of linters in April 1931. According to an announcement made by the Federal Farm Board on May 2 approximately half of the 1,300,000 bales of cotton held by the Cotton Stabilization Corp., or 650,000 bales, is to be sold during the cotton year beginning Aug. 1 1932. It was further stated that it would be the purpose to distribute the sales "throughout the season without disturbance to markets or to price levels." The Board indicated that this action was in accord with recommendations made by the Cotton Advisory Committee. The latter, it was learned from the Board's announcement understands that cotton co-operatives are holding about 2,100,000 bales of the crop of 1930, under a commitment of the Board extending to July 31 1933, and it was understood that they would continue to withhold this cotton from the market unless it could be sold at cost plus the carrying charges—a price around 13c. The 650,000 bales authorized to be sold by the Federal Farm Board were reported by the latter as being "approximately one-fifth of the total quantity of cotton now being withheld from sale by the Cotton Stabilization Corp. and by cotton co-operative associations." It was announced from Manchester, England on May 3 that a decision of great importance to the Lancashire cotton industry had been made on that day when the Spinners & Manufacturers Association announced it would terminate the agreement of 1929 which specified a standard wage and working schedule for mill hands. This action was the outcome of refusal by the employees to negotiate on wage reductions or to conclude an agreement on the so-called more-looms-per-weaver system. This left the spinning and weaving sections of the industry, involving half a million workers, without any agreement on hours and wages. A number of firms, however, already had entered into private agreement with their employees for the adoption of the more-looms system or had reduced wages. Other members of the Employers Association were now free to make similar arrangements with their own workers. Associated Press advices from Blackburn (Lancashire) England May 19 said that a strike affecting more than 200,000 operatives in the cotton trade was threatened on that day by a decision of the Northern Counties Textile Trades Federation to have the men vote on the question whether they were prepared to walk out. The result of the ballot, it was stated, would be made known before June 11, the day set for termination of the employee's notices ending all agreements on wages and hours. Spot Cotton in New York fluctuated quite considerably and in an irregular fashion, but suffered a sharp break on the closing day of the month, on generally favorable weather in the Cotton Belt over the holidays and extreme weakness in the security markets. Spot cotton in New York, as against 5.60c. April 30, several times during the month sold up to 5.90c., namely on May 6 and 7 and again on May 20, and on May 23 touched 5.95c., after which there was a steady decline, with a severe break on May 31, as already stated, which carried the price at the close of the month down to 5.30c. Print cloths at Fall River for 28 in. 64x64 were marked down on May 20 from 2⅝c. a yd. to 2½c.

In the wool trade the unsettlement in the raw wool market was a disturbing feature to the manufacturer no less than to the wool grower and dealer. The goods market was unsettled by weakness in the raw material and the raw material was weak because of absence of demand from the goods manufacturer—so one commentator expressed it. Wool mill activity in April was reported as being approximately only 50% of the average for recent years. Spring prices on rugs and carpets were reaffirmed in New York on May 23 by manufacturers opening their Fall lines. The action of producers in adhering to spring quotations and selling terms, store representatives said, would overcome the uncertainty felt by the trade when it was first announced that some of the mills would wait until Aug. 1 before showing fall patterns. Raw silk prices towards the close of May sank to new all time low levels in Japan and in the market in this city. A sharp break on May 26 at Yokohama and Kobe was attributed to heavy selling by holders of raw silk who had been scared by rumors of a tariff on silk. Tokyo advices on May 24 spoke of "startling plans for socialization of the raw silk industry having been announced by the Japanese Government and saying that bills were being drafted for submission to the Imperial Diet which convened on that day." On May 31 Japanese double extra 13-15 deniers were quoted $1.10@$1.15 May 31 against $1.35@$1.40 April 30; $1.50@$1.55, Mar. 31; $1.67½@$1.70 Feb. 29; $1.87½@$1.90 Jan. 30; $1.85@$1.90 Dec. 31; $2.20@$2.25 on Nov. 30 and also on Oct. 31, and comparing with $2.25@$2.30 Sept. 30; $2.50@$2.55 on Aug. 31; $2.30@$2.40 on July 31; $2.35@$2.40 on June 30; $2.22½@$2.27½ May 29; $2.35@$2.40 April 30; $2.55@$2.65 March 31; $2.70@$2.75 Feb. 28 and $2.85@$2.95 Jan. 31, and 4.70@$4.75 on Jan. 31 1930. In the 20-22 deniers, Japanese crack double extra were quoted at $1.10@$1.15 May 31 against $1.32½@$1.37½ April 30; $1.42½@$1.47½ March 31; $1.70@$1.80 Feb. 29; $1.95@$2.00 Jan. 30; $1.85@$1.90 Dec. 31; $2.30@$2.32½ Nov. 30; $2.10@$2.15 Oct. 31; $2.25@$2.35 Sept. 30; $2.45@$2.55 Aug. 31; $2.25@$2.30 July 31; $2.40@$2.50 June 30; $2.07½@$2.12½ May 29; $2.25@$2.30 April 30; $2.50@$2.60 March 31; $2.65@$2.70 Feb. 28; $2.85@$2.90 Jan. 31 1931, and $4.60@$4.65 on Jan. 31 1930.

Prices for crude rubber took a further bad tumble during May. New all time low prices were established over and over again. On May 26th there was a further severe break on heavy offerings of rubber from Singapore in the London market with the result of establishing a new low record both there and on the New York Rubber Exchange. The price on the board declined to 2.70c. a pound, a drop of 13 points, and comparing with a previous low record of 2.75c. The close on May 31 was even lower than this, the June option selling down to 2.68c. Ribbed smoked sheets for spot delivery in New York were quoted May 31 at 2 11-16c bid and 2¾c. asked as against 3 1-16c. asked April 30; 3 1-16c. bid and 3 3-16c. asked Mar. 31; 3⅝@3 11-16c. CONTINUED LACK OF IMPROVEMENT IN THE STEEL TRADE—U. S. STEEL CORPORATION ANNOUNCES A FURTHER REDUCTION IN WAGES—COPPER PRICES DROP STILL LOWER.

On May 6 announcement came that, effective May 16th, the U. S. Steel Corporation and subsidiary companies would "reduce by approximately 15% all wage and salary rates at all departments in the more important steel districts and in other locations to rates reflecting equitable differentials." Shortly after this announcement word came from Bethlehem, Pa., of a similar reduction by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Other steel concerns, like the Republic Steel Corporation of Youngstown, Ohio, and the Inland Steel Company of Chicago, announced they would make reductions in line with those of the United States Steel Corporation. These cuts were the second general slashes made by the steel companies in efforts to adjust costs to the small amount of business available. On Aug. 1 1931 the pay of salaried workers was cut 10% and on Oct. 1 1931, wage scales were reduced the same amount. The steel trade continued severely depressed. On its issue of May 19 the Age reported that steel ingot production for the country had risen a point to 25% of the capacity of the mills against 24% in the two preceding weeks, but the next week this increase was lost again and by the close of the month production was down to only 23%. The Iron Age in its issue of June 2 said that mild improvement was in evidence in some steel products, but had not reached mill books in time to prevent another decline in ingot output to 23% of the country's capacity, this lowered rate having been partly brought about by the Memorial holiday on May 30. The Age makes the composite price of finished steel May 31 2.087c. per lb. the same as a month earlier, the composite price of pig iron $14.06 per gross ton against $14.35 a month earlier, and the composite price of steel scrap $7.33 a gross ton against $8.04 a month earlier.

In the non-ferrous metals copper was again a weak feature. A new all time low for copper was reached on May 12 when first hand metal became available in the domestic market from several sources at 5½c. a pound, delivered to the Connecticut valley. Although the official price of Copper Exporters, Inc., for foreign copper remained unchanged at 6¼c. a pound c.i.f. Hamburg, London and Havre, as customs smelter offered copper on May 13 at 5⅝c. the lowest price at which copper ever sold abroad. Another new low record was established on May 20 when copper became available in the domestic market at 5¼c. a pound delivered for the nearer months. The price for September and the last quarter of the year fell to 5⅜c., also a new low record, on May 17. Foreign copper reached a new low level when it sold at the equivalent of 5½c. a pound c.i.f. base European ports on May 17 against 5⅝c. previously. It was reported on May 19 that copper was available at one center at 5.40c. Copper Exporters, Inc., whose official price remained unchanged at 6¼c. c.i.f. Hamburg, Havre and London is understood to have sold a small amount of foreign copper on May 20 at 5½c. Towards the close of the month the price of the metal steadied on the action of the U. S. Senate on May 23 in approving an import tax on copper of 4c. a pound in the revenue bill. In the New York market Lake copper was marked down on May 4 from 5⅞c. to 5¾c. and lowered to 5½c. on May 20; electrolytic copper was reduced May 11 from 5½c. to 5⅜c., on May 12 to 5¼c., on May 17 to 5⅛c., and on May 20 to 5c., but was marked up again on May 25 to 5⅛c. Tin prices fluctuated erratically as usual, but with an upward trend, so that the quotation May 31 was 20.50c. against 19c. on April 29. Associated Press advices from London, May 3, announced that tin production in the principal tin countries would be suspended during June and July and resumed in August at the rate of 40% of the assigned quotas. It was stated that the International Tin cartel, in which the Malay States, Nigeria, Bolivia and the Dutch East Indies participate, decided upon this drastic action to improve the market for their product. The 40% reduction schedule is to be maintained until the minimum selling price has been increased to £200 ($732 at the exchange rates of the day before), then the production is to be raised to 50%.

PETROLEUM AND ITS PRODUCTS—DRASTIC REDUCTIONS IN GASOLINE PRICES IN METROPOLITAN AREA.

A four-cent reduction in service station prices for gasoline made by the Standard Oil Co. of N. Y. throughout New York City effective as of Saturday May 21 and met by other marketers in this area was one of the features of the month. The cut brought the tank wagon price down to 6½c. for gasoline delivered, while the tank car quotation remained at 6¾c. The reduction was brought on by aggravated price cutting among retailers in different parts of the city, but most pronounced in Brooklyn. In that borough some stations had been offering gasoline at from 7 to 8 gallons for $1. The action of Socony made 8 for $1 the official price, including the 3c. State Tax. In the case of crude petroleum efforts at curtailment of output continued actively in progress. Governor Murray of Oklahoma re-entered the petroleum situation in that State. Believing that the Oklahoma City field was being drilled excessively, he declared martial law in that territory. This action aroused immediate objections on the part of City officials who declared that Oklahoma City could enforce its own regulations. As a result Governor Murray revoked his order but only "to see if the City officials will enforce the City ordinance against extensions." Acting Governor Robert Burns of Oklahoma openly defied the Governor. William H. Alfalfa Bill) Murray lifted the State's martial rule over 3,000 rich oil wells on May 20. The Lieutenant Governor acted while Governor Murray was in New York making an address on behalf of his candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination, but on May 27 martial law was again proclaimed by Governor Murray to prevent the Courts from interfering by injunction with enforcement of proration. Other than to denounce acting Governor Robert Burns for lifting martial law while he was in New York Governor Murray took no action until the Wilcox Oil & Gas Co., a bitter foe of proration, filed their petition in the Supreme Court seeking a writ of prohibition to restrain the State Corporation Commission from enforcing proration. In a unanimous opinion, written by Justice Butler, the U. S. Supreme Court on May 16 decided in the case of the State of Oklahoma, that the State has the power and authority to limit the production of oil and gas from the wells of the State to the amount of the reasonable daily market demand and to require ratable production by all taking from a common source of supply. In East Texas the Railroad Commission on May 2 issued an order reducing the per-well daily allowable output in the East Texas oil fields to 61 barrels for the first 15 days of May from 67 barrels in the preceding 15 days. For the last half of May the allowable was fixed at 59 barrels. On May 31 a further order was issued reducing the allowable output for the first 15 days of June to 54 barrels. On May 31 allowable oil production in the South Oklahoma City field was reduced by nearly 8,000 barrels daily for June by order of the State Corporation Commission after a hearing to determine market demands for oil from the city field for the next month. The Corporation Commission fixed the allowable production at the exact figure set by nominations of pipe line and oil purchasing companies, 97,336 barrels a day, compared with May allowable of 105,000 barrels daily. In the following we show the important changes during May in prices both for crude oil and the refined product:

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON WORLD ECONOMIC CONDITIONS PROJECTED.

A development of unpredictable potentialities in world affairs was foreshadowed in the closing days of May, when announcement was made in Washington and London that an international conference on world economic conditions is under consideration. Increasing rumors of important conversations between the British and American Governments led to the disclosure, apparently somewhat prematurely. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson made known in Washington, May 31, that such a conference was in prospect, while Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon informed the House of Commons in London on the following day that all countries invited to the Lausanne conference on German reparations were also being sounded out regarding participation in this new economic parley. The greatest importance was promptly attached to this proposal, not only in Britain and the United States, but in all other lands as well.

Disclosure of the plan for holding this meeting was made as a result of steadily mounting conjecture regarding the subject of a transatlantic telephone conversation held May 25 between Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Secretary Stimson. In his first formal pronouncement on the subject, Mr. Stimson revealed that the suggestion for an international conference arose from inquiries by the British Ambassador to Washington as to whether the United States would join in a meeting to consider "methods to stabilize world commodity prices." After due consideration, the Secretary added, a reply was made through Ambassador Mellon in London to the effect that this Government considers early convocation of the conference might be of real value in the present depression. "The proposed conference would have nothing to do with war debts, reparations, disarmament, or any other than purely economic subjects," Mr. Stimson announced.

It was indicated unofficially, in following days, that the question of tariffs also would be excluded from the discussions. Reports from Washington stated that the conference would be expected to take a wide range, covering questions relating to currency, foreign exchange, the gold standard silver and other matters. In reference to commodity prices, a Washington dispatch to the New York "Times" said, it was expected the conference would consider the general application of more liberal credit policies, in the belief this will stop the shrinkage of values.

In his statement before the House of Commons, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon remarked that the arrangements were still in an informal and preliminary stage, and that the views of other Governments had not yet been made available. "It has to be remembered," he said, "that the terms of reference for the conference at Lausanne include, among other objects to be sought, not only a settlement of reparations, but also an agreement on the measures necessary to solve other economic and financial difficulties which are responsible for and may prolong the present world crisis. Unless, therefore ,the United States sends representatives to the second part of the Lausanne conference, there is grave danger of overlapping and the questions of time and place would remain to be considered even if yet a further conference were decided upon. At the same time, the importance of co-operation by the United States in such a discussion is so great that his Majesty's Government is losing no time in consulting the other governments who will be assembled at Lausanne as to the suggestion which has been made."

This statement was viewed in Washington as a virtual invitation to the United States Government to join the second half of the Lausanne meeting. That the proposal will be given further favorable consideration was indicated in Washington, June 2. The State Department made known, an Associated Press dispatch said, that if the Lausanne conference of June 16 holds an adjourned meeting in London for the purpose of discussing plans for the betterment of world economic conditions, the United States is quite willing to attend. "The United States and Great Britain," it was reported, "are in complete agreement about the holding of a world economic conference in London, and this Government will attend at any time such a conference can be arranged." The procedure of holding an adjourned conference in London would, it is pointed out, definitely dissociate the meeting from the Lausanne conference, which is viewed in the United States as concerned with reparations. Attendance at the second meeting only would enable the United States Government to maintain its traditional aloofness from all questions relating to reparations.

Although a favorable view was taken everywhere of the proposal for an economic parley, all observers remained completely pessimistic regarding the possible results of the discussion at Lausanne on the reparations problem.

CHANGE OF MINISTRY IN FRANCE AND GERMANY—ASSASSINATION OF FRENCH PRESIDENT.

Political developments of outstanding importance occurred during May in France and Germany. Cabinet crises were occasioned in both countries by expressions of the popular will in plebiscites which left no doubt that the existing regimes were not fully representative of the will of the people. In France the Cabinet headed by Premier Andre Tardieu resigned soon after elections for the Chamber of Deputies, held early in May, but the resignation was not accepted until after the new Chamber session began on June 1. On the following day M. Eouard Herriot undertook to form a Cabinet of parties with a somewhat more Left orientation than that of his predecessor. In Germany a Cabinet crisis was brought about by President Paul von Hindenburg, owing primarily to the results of the Presidential election in March and the State elections which followed. These plebiscites showed that the National-Socialist party of Adolph Hitler, with its Fascist leanings, had made huge strides. Attempts were made to give the regime headed by Dr. Heinrich Bruening a more representative cast, but these were unsuccessful. After a protracted discussion between President von Hindenburg and Dr. Bruening, the latter resigned, and Colonel Franz von Papen was commissioned to form a "national concentration" Cabinet. This was quickly done, but the step was immediately revealed as only a means toward dissolution of the Reichstag and the holding of general elections in the Reich. A decree dissolving the Reichstag was signed by the President June 3, and elections must be held within 60 days thereafter.

French parliamentary elections were held early in May, in accordance with the Continental system, which requires an absolute majority in the first balloting, with a second test necessary in all instances where results are indecisive. More than 3,600 candidates appeared in the contest for the 615 seats in the Chamber. First ballots were cast May 1, and they revealed a substantial victory for the Left groups, and especially for the Radical-Socialist party of Edouard Herriot. Actually, only 248 seats were decided in the first election, and these showed an almost equal division between Right and Left groups. Owing to the established custom of the Left parties to withdraw weaker candidates and leave the field clear for an outright contest with the Right party candidates in doubtful districts, this presaged a Left victory in the second balloting, which was held May 8.

Before the second election could be held, France was thrown into national mourning by the assassination of the President of the Republic, Paul Doumer. The 75-year-old President was shot twice on May 6 by a crazed Russian emigre, and he died of his wounds early the next day, despite desperate efforts to save his life. Questioning of Paul Gorguloff, the fanatical Russian who committed the act, indicated a belief on his part that the murder would provoke France into declaring war on Soviet Russia. A national funeral was held May 12. Premier Tardieu acted with great dispatch in this national emergency, and promptly summoned the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate to meet at Versailles, May 10, for the election of a new President. Albert F. Lebrun, President of the Senate, was elected by an overwhelming vote to occupy the Elysee Palace. Only one vote was taken by the National Assembly, and M. Lebrun was elected by 633 votes to 114 given the Socialist candidate, M. Paul Faure, admittedly as a party gesture.

It was at first assumed that the assassination might change the course of the second balloting for Deputies, but the incident apparently brought few changes, if any. The tendency indicated in the first vote was confirmed on May 8, and the Radical-Socialists scored the greatest gains, this party emerging with 157 seats. The Socialists secured the second strongest representation of 129 seats in the new Chamber. All the important parties of the Right lost ground, and the election was considered to a large degree a personal defeat of Premier Andre Tardieu, who relied for support upon the Right and Center groups. M. Tardieu made it his first business, therefore, after the election of President Lebrun, to hand the resignations of his Cabinet to the new chief of the French State. He consented to remain in office until the meeting of the new Chamber, but only on condition that his successor would be chosen as quickly as possible.

It was accepted from the start that the Radical-Socialist leader, M. Herriot, would be invited to form a Government to succeed that of M. Tardieu, and a corresponding interest was taken in his views. These were outlined to a degree, May 19, when M. Herriot informed the Diplomatic Corps in Paris that his Government would pursue a policy in foreign affairs differing but little from that of his predecessor. He made clear that he favors the established French policies on war debts, reparations and disarmament. In further preparation for his assumption of office, M. Herriot was an attentive listener, May 24, as Premier Tardieu and Finance Minister Pierre Etienne Flandin informed President Lebrun of the position of France with respect to important national and international questions. Soon after the Chamber convened, June 1, M. Lebrun accepted the formal resignations of the Tardieu Cabinet, and M. Herriot immediately undertook to form a new Ministry. A coalition regime of mildly Liberal parties was formed June 4, and no startling departures from previous French policies are expected to develop.

The change in the German Government was more disconcerting, from an international viewpoint, as it signified the end of the coalition Cabinet which had guided the destinies of the Reich with great skill for more than two years. Chancellor Bruening and his entire Cabinet were forced to resign, May 30, when, at a private conference held by the Chancellor with Field Marshal von Hindenburg, the President expressed opposition to important proposals of the Chancellor relating both to internal and foreign affairs. The enforced resignation of Dr. Bruening was everywhere considered deplorable, as he had gained a world-wide reputation for force, ability and trustworthiness in the conduct of German affairs. The Cabinet crisis occurred, moreover, only a few weeks after the Reichstag supported the Bruening regime by a comfortable margin in a confidence test.

Announcement of the resignation was followed by the usual consultations between the President and the leaders of all important Reichstag parties and groups. These were concluded late May 31, when President von Hindenburg commissioned Colonel Franz von Papen to form a "national concentration" Cabinet. The choice was viewed with little enthusiasm in Germany and with marked coolness in all other countries. Colonel von Papen was not a national figure in the Reich, where he is known chiefly as the owner of the newspaper "Germania" and as a member of the extreme Right wing of the Catholic Center party, to which Dr. Bruening also belongs. The party manifested its instant disapproval of the choice by announcing that it will have nothing to do with the von Papen Cabinet. It appeared, however, that the important National-Socialist party would view the new regime tolerantly, in the expectation that Parliamentary elections will be held in the autumn and the von Papen Cabinet thus prove a transition regime. The new Government was promptly dubbed in Germany a Feudal Cabinet, as the choice of Ministers by Chancellor von Papen reflects the domination of the old German nobility, the Junkers and the military caste.

In London, Paris, Washington and other capitals the choice of Colonel von Papen for the German Chancellorship was viewed with surprise and concern. It was immediately recalled that Colonel von Papen, together with Captain Boy-Ed, naval attache of the German Embassy in Washington, was recalled to Germany late in 1915 at the request of the United States Government. An announcement on Dec. 3 1915 by Robert Lansing, then Secretary of State, indicated that the recall was requested "on account of what this Government considers improper activities in military and naval matters." In an indictment by a Federal Grand Jury, early in 1916, Colonel von Papen was charged with "setting on foot a military expedition against a friendly power." Because of the questionable auspices under which Colonel von Papen left the United States, the choice of President von Hindenburg was considered most surprising. This feeling was tempered, however, by the realization that the Cabinet will probably prove a temporary one.

The rift in the views of President von Hindenburg and Dr. Bruening was reflected with more or less definiteness during recent weeks by the abortive attempts of the Chancellor to reconstruct his Cabinet. General Wilhelm Groener was forced out of the Defense Ministry several weeks ago after he issued an order for the suppression of the Fascist storm battalions built up by Adolph Hitler. The choice of a successor proved difficult and the post remained vacant. President von Hindenburg repaired to his estate at Neudeck in East Prussia for a short holiday, and returned to Berlin May 29. Immediately after his return he conferred for somewhat less than an hour with Dr. Bruening. A brief communication was issued stating that the "entire political situation" had been discussed at the meeting, but otherwise complete silence was preserved by the two participants.

Fall of the Bruening Government followed, May 30, and it was immediately made apparent that the occurrence was due to the direct personal action of the President. The German Parliament was not in session at the time. It was reported in a Berlin dispatch to the New York "Herald Tribune" that the resignation was regarded in German political circles as heralding not a mere change of Ministry, but the beginning of an entirely new governmental regime in the Reich. Dr. Bruening handed the collective resignations of the Cabinet to the President after holding a Cabinet meeting at which the President's conditions for maintaining the Bruening Cabinet in power were found unacceptable. "The fall was due," the "Herald Tribune" report said, "to a clash of views between the Chancellor and the President, whose intimate and cordial co-operation for two years had tided the Reich over the stress of the world's greatest economic crisis."

The new Government was completed June 3, with the exception of one or two minor portfolios, and President von Hinenburg promptly administered the oaths of office. As the Foreign Minister in the regime, Chancellor von Papen chose Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German Ambassador to London, who is regarded with animosity by German republicans. The leading figure in the Cabinet is generally believed in Germany to be not the Chancellor, but General Kurt von Schleicher, Reichswehr (Defense) Minister. Baron von Gayl, Minister of the Interior, is also considered a strong personality in the regime. It was confidently predicted in Berlin that President von Hindenburg would issue a decree dissolving the Reichstag almost immediately, and calling for general elections. This expectation was realized June 4, when a Presidential decree was announced making new Parliamentary elections necessary within 60 days.

POLITICAL MURDER IN JAPAN—ASSASSINATION OF PREMIER INUKAI.

Rumblings of political discontent also were audible in Japan during May, and the traditional weapon of political murder was employed to make the complaints of factions effective. A band of militaristic terrorists shot and killed Premier Ki Inukai, 77-year-old head of the Seiyukai party, May 15, precipitating a Cabinet crisis. The occurrence was only one incident in a series of terroristic acts committed by the assailants, who attempted to assassinate Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, Count Nobuaki Makino, as well. Bombs were thrown at a number of Government buildings and at banking quarters. After these attacks 18 young militaristic malcontents surrendered and made it plain that they were motivated by the old Japanese idea of registering a protest at the cost of life itself against conditions which they considered intolerable. The real cause of the outburst was said in Tokio reports to be the inflamed nationalism of the last six months, coupled with economic stress and the general disgust at the corruption and ineptitude of politicians. After a week of uncertainty, Emperor Hirohito acted on the advice of Prince Saionji, last of the Genro or Elder Statesmen, to end the crisis. The liberal-minded Viscount Makoto Saito was commissioned to form a new non-partisan Cabinet on May 22, and the 74-year-old Admiral, who was formerly Governor-General of Korea, accomplished this task speedily. Three ministerial posts were allotted to the Seiyukai or majority party, two to the Minseito or opposition group, and six to military and other non-partisan leaders.

THE MAY FINANCING OF THE U. S. TREASURY.

After the extensive financing done by the United States Treasury in April, the financing during the month of May was confined entirely to the placing of several new issues of Treasury bills, disposed of on a discount basis, and the terms on which these new bills, as announced from week to week, became steadily more favorable to the Government, until a point was reached when the bills were discounted on a basis so low that the rate of interest was barely more than nominal. This unique state of things grew out of the Federal Reserve policy of large-scale purchases of United States Government securities, with a view to getting out Federal Reserve credit in corresponding measure for the proclaimed purpose of easing the general credit situation and thereby inducing, as hoped, the ordinary banks to assume a more liberal attitude in the granting of loans and the making of investments. The ultimate object in mind was to check the decline in commodity prices and to raise such prices to higher levels. To that end it was felt a policy of inflation was necessary, and it was distinctly declared that inflation was intended, though a disposition grew up to call it "re"-flation and to indicate that by means of such re-flation the previous deflation which was held to be responsible for the decline in commodity prices would be overcome. The plain working of the scheme, however, was that the Reserve credit thus forced into the banking and credit channels simply congested in the financial centers in the shape of excess reserves, and the banks in those centers in the effort to find employment for such excess funds bought United States Treasury bills and other short-time obligations of ready liquidity. The Reserve banks in turn in the carrying out of their policy of purchasing United States Government securities on an enormous scale with a view to putting in additional amounts of Reserve credit afloat, as already explained (purchasers of United States securities having for several successive weeks averaged $100,000,000 a week), showed a decided preference for the new Treasury bills, though they also indulged in the buying of United States bonds and of Treasury notes.

This preference for the short-term Treasury bills grew out of the desire of the Federal Reserve Banks to insure their own liquidity. The process, accordingly, was that the ordinary banking institutions, particularly at the financial centers, had large excess reserves and turned to Treasury bills as a ready means for investing the same. Spirited bidding was the natural outcome of such a situation, and the bidding was accelerated and intensified by the knowledge on the part of those making the tenders for the bills that in any event the Federal Reserve banks, being in the market for these self-same Treasury obligations, could be depended upon to take them off the hands of the purchasers of the same. Thus it happened that in the end the new Treasury bills found lodgment in Federal Reserve portfolios and that such high prices were realized that the yield to the purchasers of the bills—in this case the Federal Reserve banks themselves—dropped close to the vanishing point. The United States Treasury was the gainer, but at the expense of the Federal Reserve banks. The fact should not escape notice that in buying these Treasury bills at second hand from the original purchasers the Federal Reserve banks had to pay an even higher price than that realized by the United States Treasury so as to allow these original purchasers a profit on the transaction, from which it follows that the full nature of the diminutive character of the rate of return to the Federal Reserve banks is not revealed by the rate at which the United States Treasury effected its sale of the bills—from that rate must be deducted the profit realized by the first-hand purchases of these Treasury discount bills, whatever that profit may have been.

As to the sales themselves of these Treasury bills, they were, as already stated, at rapidly declining rates of return until they were only a little above merely nominal figures. The latter part of March these Treasury bills had sold on a discount basis of 2.08% per annum. During April the sales ranged from an average of 1.05% per annum down to 0.62 and 0.63 of 1% per annum. On May 4 an issue of $75,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills was announced by Secretary Mills. These bills, which were dated May 11 1932, and made to mature Aug. 10 1932, replaced $76,399,000 of Treasury bills which matured on May 11. Tenders were received up to 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time, on Monday, May 9. These tenders reached an aggregate of $351,661,000, of which $76,744,000 were accepted. The average price realized by the Treasury on this sale was 99.829, the average rate on a bank discount basis thus being about 0.68 of 1%, which was not materially different, it will be observed, from the rate at the last sale in April, which was, as just noted, 0.63 of 1%. Succeeding sales in May, however, were at much better prices to the Treasury, and correspondingly lower rates of return to those purchasing the bills. On May 11 Secretary Mills gave notice of an offering of $75,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills, these being dated May 18 1932 and made to mature on Aug. 17 1932. They replaced an issue of bills totaling $75,689,000, which matured May 18. Tenders were received up to 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time, on Monday, May 16. The total amount applied for on this occasion was $395,069,000, of which an even $75,000,000 was accepted. The average price realized by the Treasury was 99.893, this being an average rate on a bank discount basis of only about 0.43 of 1% per annum. This, it was pointed out, was the lowest interest rate at which any issue of Treasury bills was ever disposed of, the previous low record having been 0.46 of 1% made in the summer of 1931. But the rate was destined to drop still lower. On May 18 announcement came of an offering of $60,000,000 of 91-day bills dated May 25 1932, and to mature Aug. 24 1932. Tenders were received up to 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time, Monday, May 23. This attracted bids in the amount of $334,818,000, of which $60,050,000 were accepted. The average price obtained by the Treasury in this sale was 99.927, at which figure the average rate of return on a bank discount business was no more than 0.29 of 1% per annum. In view of what has already been said, it seems like supererogation to add that this was by far the lowest rate of return at which any sale of Treasury bills was ever effected, and moreover, as indicated, the Federal Reserve banks must have netted an even lower rate of return after allowing a profit on the transaction to those who purchased the bills at first hand. There was still another sale during May, and the rate at that sale was only a trifle higher than the unprecedentedly low figure just mentioned. On May 24 the Secretary of the Treasury offered $100,000,000 of these 91-day Treasury bills. This was to replace $101,412,000 of bills maturing June 1. Bids were invited up to 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time, on Friday, May 27. The bills were dated June 1 1932, and to mature Aug. 31 1932. The total of the applications in this case was $296,503,000, of which $100,200,000 were accepted. The average price realized by the Treasury was 99.919, equivalent to an average rate on a bank discount basis of about 0.32 of 1%.

THE COURSE OF THE STOCK MARKET DURING MAY.

There was no abatement of the weakness in the stock market during May, but, instead, the weakness was intensified, and further large declines in prices occurred on top of the prodigious losses previously sustained. New low records were established all around both for the year 1932 and the long-continued break in prices, the origin of which dates back to the time of the initial smash in October and November of the year 1929. There was little interruption to the downward movement during May. A few stocks showed a rising tendency the first few days of the month; otherwise the decline continued day after day with scarcely any letup of consequence, and with only an occasional rally, which never lasted long. There were repeated days of severe breaks when startling declines took place and yet there were no periods of violent collapse such as mark the course of Stock Exchange values when the market takes a sudden downward plunge and when liquidation is precipitated on an extensive scale by reason of some event which in the estimation of the speculative world deals a bad blow at security values either in its immediate operation or its probable future results. Dealings were of only moderate volume, there having been only seven days during the month when the sales on the New York Stock Exchange reached or exceeded a million shares a day, and there was no sudden throwing over of stocks in large volume at any time, but stocks kept steadily dribbling out day after day, and in the absence of any considerable buying—general conditions being not such as to encourage buying either on speculative or investment account—prices kept drifting to lower and still lower levels. Possibly bear operations on occasions accelerated the downward movement in instances where operators detected vulnerable points, but there was never anything that could be said to resemble any drives against the market. Nevertheless, with market values falling day by day, the cumulative losses for the month were of great size—so much so as to make them among the most notable on record, especially in view of the prodigious antecedent declines. In the case of the 50 stocks included in the averages compiled by the New York "Times," there was a decline from 52.13 on May 7 as the high for the month to 38.64 on May 31 as the low, with the close on this final day of the month at 39.03 as against the close on April 30 of 49.35. The 25 industrial stocks included in these averages dropped from a high of 86.90 on May 6 to 66.09 May 31, with the close on the latter day at 66.82 against 81.73 the close on April 30, while the 25 railroad stocks dropped from a high of 17.41 on May 7 to 11.20 May 31, with the close 11.24 compared with the close on April 30 of 16.97. The New York "Times" points out that the average for the 25 industrial stocks May 31 was the lowest since 1917, and that the average for the railway stocks and the composite average for the 50 stocks (including both industrials and railroads) on May 31 touched the lowest points since the compilations were begun, back in 1911. The "Times" also points out that at the low level on May 31 the decline during the three months of March, April and May, or, to be exact, since March 8 1932, in the index of 50 stocks, has amounted to 51%, and says that this is the largest percentage drop of any of the selling waves which have engulfed the stock market in the last two and one-half years. Previously, it is observed, the most severe break—that between September and November 1929—had amounted to 47.3%. The "Times" writer adds: "In attempting to explain the severity of the present decline, brokers have remarked that the situation has been caused by a shortage of buyers rather than by an overwhelming number of sellers. In this decline the number of odd-lot buyers who have sought bargains, as on each slump of the past, has not expanded as much as usual, it is pointed out. The brokers believe the resources of the odd-lot buyers have been depleted by previous investments."

It is to be noted that during May the weakness in the bond market was as conspicuous a feature as the weakness in stocks, and it should be added that the depression in the bond market was not confined to the second grade or low-priced issues. These experienced the severest declines, but the decline also extended to the high-priced issues, and some that had been regarded until recently as really gilt-edged. United States Government issues, which during April had developed a strongly rising tendency, induced by the large-scale purchases of United States securities by the Federal Reserve banks, also began to shade off. In seeking for the causes of the general depression in security values, they are found in the numerous adverse features which have so long been hanging over the financial and industrial world, besides some new ones. In the first place there was a complete absence of any signs of improvement in trade and business, even the seasonal advance in many lines of trade being lacking. Then the railroads, reflecting the growing depression in trade, continued to make very poor returns of earnings, notwithstanding the slightly higher rates for the transportation of freight which they have been permitted to put in force by authority of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and net earnings especially were disappointing in view of the 10% reduction in wages to which union labor consented. Then the budget deficit of the Federal Government kept steadily growing in magnitude, and the course of the tax bill intended to provide additional revenue so as to eliminate this deficit, was slow in its passage through the Senate and did not emerge from that body until the night of the last day of the month, and then only as the result of urgent pressure on the part of President Hoover. Then the House of Representatives on May 2, by an overwhelming vote, passed what is known as the Goldsborough Bill, which directs the Federal Reserve authorities to use their control of credit and of currency so as to bring about the level of commodity values ruling between 1921 and 1929. This measure was regarded with great distrust, not only in Europe, but in the United States as well. Besides this, all sorts of propositions involving expenditures running into billions of dollars, and requiring correspondingly large new issues of United States securities to provide means for assisting the army of needy persons and for engaging in gigantic projects intended to provide work for the masses of unemployed and to inaugurate recovery in business were being urged in Congress with great strenuousness and persistency. These projects caused anxiety in Europe as in the United States. Europe also viewed with great distrust the open market operations of the Federal Reserve banks in their large-scale purchases of United States Government securities, the Reserve banks having the previous month embarked on the policy of buying an average of $100,000,000 of United States securities a week, after having previously been purchasing Government securities at the rate of about $25,000,000 a week. The result of all this was that there was once more a great flight from the dollar, foreign funds and foreign balances being withdrawn from the United States in enormous amounts, and there being likewise liquidation of foreign-owned investments and the transfer of the proceeds to Europe as a matter of precaution against the possibility of this country being forced off the gold standard. This gigantic outflow of gold came as a sort of climax to all the other adverse features which had been hanging like a dead weight over the security market and over trade and business, and it certainly furnished occasion for anxiety as the shipments continued in progress and, as noted elsewhere, reached an aggregate of no less than $235,600,000, including $22,100,000 added during the month to the earmarked stock of the metal held for foreign account.

At the beginning of May for a few days there was some manifestation of steadiness in stocks, encouraging the hope that some recovery in security values might be definitely in prospect for the early future, but this did not last long in view of the accumulating adverse features noted above. Even in these early days of the month the railroad list was under constant pressure owing to the action of the Inter-State Commerce Commission at the close of April in imposing upon the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway a requirement that fixed charges must be reduced before the Commission would approve applications on the part of the road for further loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. This acted as a depressing influence, not only upon railroad shares, but also upon railroad bonds especially the low-priced issues. Then a very despondent feeling kept growing up owing to the course of things at Washington in Congressional circles. A very bad impression was created by the action of the House of Representatives on Monday, May 2, in passing the World War Widows' and Orphans' Bill, authorizing an expenditure of $100,000,000 (because so suggestive of improvidence at a time of financial embarrassment) over the next five years by the overwhelming vote of 316 to 16 after a debate of only 40 minutes. A still worse impression was created, as already noted, by the passage in the House on the same day of the Goldsborough Bill by a vote of 289 to 60, directing the Reserve authorities to conduct their policy with a view to raising commodity prices to the level of the years 1921 to 1929. As already stated, this last had the effect of creating new apprehensions abroad regarding the ability of the United States to maintain gold payments and led, as the first result, to a sharp rise in the foreign exchanges at New York on the leading European centers, and also to new withdrawals of gold for European account. Dividend reductions and omissions also played their part as in previous months in adding to the feeling of gloom and depression. One of these quite early in the month was that of the General Motors Corp., which reduced its quarterly dividend on the common shares from 50c. a share to 25c. a share, after having three months previously reduced from 75c. a share to 50c. a share.

The rest of the month the many adverse featurees enumerated above kept steadily coming to the front. On May 12 and May 13 there was special weakness on Washington advices that President Hoover looked with favor upon the Senate proposition for relief loans to States and for a bond issue to stimulate employment. Severe recessions occurred in Government bonds on May 12 as a result, and the stock market moved sharply downward under the same influence. A further depressing agency was a succession of adverse dividend announcements by some prominent railroads and other corporations. On May 11 the New York Central passed off the dividend list for the first time since the original consolidation of the various lines in New York State under the name of the New York Central & Hudson River RR. This was in 1870—62 years ago. The company had been paying quarterly dividends, but the previous Dec. 9 had announced that until business conditions improved declarations of dividends would be made semi-annually instead of quarterly. The directors now found that dividend payments were altogether out of the question. On May 12 the Union Pacific RR. reduced its quarterly dividend from 2½% to 1½%—that is, from a basis of 10% per annum to 6% per annum. There were numerous other dividend reductions and omissions, and the two named are mentioned simply because they stand out with especial prominence. On Monday, May 16, the news regarding the assassination of the Japanese Premier was a depressing feature, and Japanese bonds and the Japanese yen suffered sharp recessions. After an early slump, however, in the stock market on that day a rally occurred later in the day, mainly, it was believed, owing to covering of outstanding short commitments. A meeting of the Governors of the Federal Reserve banks occurred at Washington on May 17, and aroused some interest, though the unemployment relief program in its various phases which was under discussion in Washington seemed to be regarded of more immediate concern and United States Government securities displayed weakness due to the fear of further issues of United States bonds. As a matter of fact, the United States securities were under more or less pressure at this time, though the announcement given out with reference to the meeting of the Federal Reserve Governors on May 17 had somewhat of a steadying effect on Government bond issues for the time being, inasmuch as it stated that open market purchases of Government securities would be continued. On May 18 news came that the American Tel. & Tel. Co. had continued the quarterly dividend of 2¼% on its stock unchanged, but this did not serve to prevent a sharp break in the stock of that company, and Atchison shares also displayed exceptional weakness, with Atchison general 4s likewise suffering a sharp decline on the assumption that a small wheat movement was in prospect in Atchison territory owing to the damage to the growing wheat crop in Kansas and other Southwestern States traversed by the Atchison System. Another depressing feature appeared on May 19 when the Atlantic Coast Line RR. omitted its semi-annual dividend on the common stock, and it also appeared that Louisville & Nashville RR. had likewise suspended dividend payments, to which might be added the further fact that on May 18 the Southern Pacific Co. definitely decided to omit dividend payments on its capital stock. At the Feb. 17 meeting of the Board of Directors of that company it had been decided to defer until May further consideration of a dividend payment, and it was now found that a dividend was wholly out of the question owing to the steady shrinkage of traffic and revenue. Many other dividend reductions and omissions too numerous to mention here were also announced at this time.

In the meantime gold exports proceeded on a prodigious scale and exercised a dampening influence on all the security markets. The latter part of the month the earnings statements of the railroads began to come in for the month of April, and with scarcely an exception they failed to show improvement over the very poor returns of previous months. Liquidation on a large scale now developed in the tobacco stocks, with Reynolds Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, Lorillard, and American Tobacco suffering severe declines. The New York traction stocks were also under pressure at this time, and other public utilities, including Consolidated Gas of New York, likewise moved sharply downward. Concurrently, many of the commercial markets took an unfavorable turn, thereby adding to the prevailing gloom in the stock market. Thus, on Thursday, May 26, nearly all the commercial markets were weak, wheat prices dropping about 2c. a bushel, rubber breaking on heavy offerings of rubber from Singapore in the London market, with the result of establishing a new low record, both there and on the New York Rubber Exchange. The price of rubber on the Board declined to 2.70c. a pound, a drop of 13 points, and comparing with the previous low record of 2.75c. a pound. The cotton market also manifested weakness the latter part of the month, and this was accentuated as the result of news from Liverpool on May 26 that Hornby-Hemelryk & Co., cotton and general produce brokers, and one of the oldest cotton firms in Liverpool, had announced its suspension. On Saturday, May 28, a new adverse feature developed in the news that dividends had been suspended after the close of business the day before on 10 issues of stock of companies included in the Cities Service System, one of the best-known public utilities in the country. The securities of this system are dealt in on the New York Curb Exchange, where the result was to cause a severe break in the prices of all the different issues, including bonds, as well as stocks, and this served as a further depressing influence on the New York Stock Exchange. The Stock Exchange was closed on Monday, May 30. On Tuesday, May 31, a further severe downward plunge occurred, in part on the news that the Bruening Ministry in Germany had handed in its resignation, this ministry having been regarded as a conservative force in Germany, especially as against the radical element like the Hitlerites, and in part likewise on the deadlock on the tax bill which appeared to have been reached in the United States Senate—a deadlock, however, which President Hoover succeeded in breaking by his action in appearing personally before the Senate and making a personal appeal, the outcome of which, however, was not known until after the Stock Exchange had closed for business. The result of the new plunge downward was to leave stock prices on the closing day of May at the lowest level of the month, and, in fact, at the lowest level of the long period of depression.

As already indicated, trading on the Stock Exchange was of only moderate volume, reaching an aggregate of only 23,136,913 shares. This was the smallest of any month since October 1924. In May 1931 the sales totaled 46,659,525 shares; in May 1930, 78,340,030 shares, and in May 1929, 91,283,550 shares. On the New York Curb Exchange the transactions totaled 3,263,354 shares against 8,117,288 shares in May 1931; 22,763,240 shares in May 1930, and 35,954,099 shares in May 1929. As indicating the general drift downward in prices, survey of our tabulations shows that no less than 828 shares established new low levels during the month for 1932 on the New York Stock Exchange, and 414 shares new low levels on the New York Curb Exchange.

As far as the separate stocks are concerned, it follows from what has been said above regarding the decline in the general averages that many sharp downward plunges occurred, including stocks that have always ranked high. American Tel. & Tel., after rising from 97⅞ May 1 to 102 May 7, dropped to 88 May 31; Allied Chemical & Dye, after rising from 52¾ at the opening on May 1, to 57¼ May 7, fell to 47⅜ May 31; Auburn Automobile, after moving up from 34 May 1 to 39 May 6, tumbled to 28¾ May 16, with the close May 31 at 31¼; United States Steel rose from 28⅛ May 1 to 31⅜ May 7, and sold down to 25½ May 31; General Electric tumbled from 15 May 7 to 8½ May 31; American Can declined from 42 May 6 to 34½ May 31; Consolidated Gas of New York from 52¼ May 7 to 36 May 31; Public Service of New Jersey from 45⅞ May 6 to 34⅛ May 31; Brooklyn Union Gas from 74 May 6 to 55 May 31; People's Gas of Chicago from 71⅞ May 6 to 53½ May 31; North American from 25⅝ May 6 to 14⅛ May 26, with the close May 31 at 14¾. The tobacco stocks were one of the weak features, and American Tobacco, after rising from 63½ May 1 to 67½ May 6, tumbled to 42¼ May 31; Reynolds Tobacco class B fell from 33 May 11 to 26⅞ May 31; Liggett & Myers class B fell from 50½ May 11 to 34⅛ May 31. Corn Products Refining, after rising from 32 May 1 to 36⅛ May 11, declined to 26⅞ May 31. American Stores dropped from 32⅝ May 2 to 20 May 31; Woolworth (F. W.) from 35 May 7 to 23½ May 31; Sears, Roebuck & Co. from 19 May 11 to 14 May 31; Montgomery Ward & Co. from 7⅝ May 6 to 3½ May 31. Borden broke from 31 May 11 to 20¾ May 31. And these illustrations might be continued almost indefinitely. The railroad list was depressed most of all, though most of the rails had already declined so much that there was little farther for them to go. Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe dropped from 39 May 7 to 23¼ May 31; Delaware & Hudson from 60 May 7 to 42¾ May 31; New York Central from 17⅛ May 2 to 9¼ May 28, with the close May 31 at 9⅜; Pennsylvania RR. from 11½ May 2 to 7 May 31; New York New Haven & Hartford from 14¼ May 7 to 6 May 26, with the close May 31 at the same figure. Norfolk & Western dropped from 86 May 7 to 62½ May 31; Union Pacific from 54¾ May 7 to 35⅝ May 26, with the close May 31 at 35¾; Southern Pacific from 13½ May 7 to 6¾ May 26, with the close May 31 at 7¼; Great Northern preferred from 11½ May 10 to 5½ May 28, with the close May 31 at 5⅝; Canadian Pacific from 11⅞ May 9 to 7¼ May 31. Even the local traction stocks moved sharply downward, and Brooklyn-Manhattan stock fell from 38⅞ May 7 to 24½ May 31, while the preferred fell from 66 May 6 to 45 May 31.

As already observed, the bond market was no less depressed than the stock market, and the break in prices was not confined to the low-priced issues, but extended to the better class of issues, including those which had until recently been considered really gilt-edged. As an instance of the latter kind, we may mention that Atchison general 4s sold down from 85½ May 2 to 74½ May 31; on March 7 this issue sold at 91. United States Government bonds also moved lower after their advance of the previous month—in fact, some of these issues lost almost the whole of their gain of April. In the foreign list a feature was British Government 20-year 5½s, which advanced from 101⅛ May 2 to 106¼ May 26, but closed May 31 at 103. In the following table we show the fluctuations during May in the different issues of United States obligations, and also in a large list of railroad and industrial bonds, and a considerable number, likewise, of foreign bond issues:

THE MONEY MARKET DURING MAY 1932.

There was a further intensification of ease in the money market in May, and a highly abnormal state of things developed during which rates for many classes of borrowing sank to merely nominal figures. This was in face of gold exports which were appalling because of their magnitude. These exports continued all through the month and at an accelerating pace. Further below in our discussion of the course of sterling exchange we give the details of the gold shipments and will say here only that the takings reached unprecedented proportions, aggregating, according to the compilations of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, no less than $235,600,000, this including $22,100,000 addition to the earmarked stock. The further decline in money rates, in face of the prodigious outflow of the metal, would be inexplicable except for the fact that the Federal Reserve banks adhered strictly to their large-scale purchases of United States Government securities as part of their policy of injecting large masses of Reserve credit into the country's banking system. Indeed, it may be said that the gold exports, in part at least, were the direct effect of the Reserve banks' easy money policy, since under the provisions of the Glass-Steagall Act they involved the use of Government securities as part collateral for the security of Federal Reserve notes, a policy which was regarded abroad with distrust, and as a weakening feature, especially as concurrently with this the Goldsborough Bill instructing the Federal Reserve banks to conduct Reserve operations with a view to restoring commodity values to the level prevailing in the years between 1921 and 1929 passed the House of Representatives by an overwhelming majority. Not only that, but propositions galore for extending aid of one kind or another in relief of unemployment and for promoting business recovery, involving expenditures of such magnitude that they would require the issuing of Government obligations running into billions of dollars, were under discussion in both branches of Congress and were being entertained even at the White House, though of course in modified form.

All this, it was held abroad, meant dangerous inflation and debasement of the currency, and, as a matter of precaution, European Central banks, which for a long time had been engaged in withdrawing their balances in this country, now began making withdrawals on a prodigious scale, the huge gold shipments being the inevitable outcome of the fright which seems to have overcome the whole of Europe, leading to what looked like a veritable flight from the dollar, investors and capitalists joining the central banks in closing out their investments as well as their bank balances in this country. The Treasury bills which the United States Treasury put out week by week found their way almost entirely into the portfolios of Federal Reserve banks themselves in the carrying out of their policy of large-scale purchases of United States securities, these purchases continuing at an average of $100,000,000 a week until the last week in the month, when there was some reduction in the volume of these purchases. In the eight weeks from April 6 to June 1, the Federal Reserve banks increased their holdings of United States securities from $885,014,000 to $1,575,200,000, and, roughly, $525,000,000 of this increase was in "certificates and bills," meaning certificates of indebtedness and Treasury bills of discount, the amount of which increased from $481,929,000 April 6 to $1,006,784,000 June 1. The process by which the United States Treasury bills in the end reached the portfolios of the Reserve Banks themselves in the carrying out of the Reserve policy of large-scale purchases of United States securities has been described under a separate heading in our discussion of United States Treasury Financing during the month, and it is needful to say here only that these United States Treasury bills were finally disposed of on a basis where the rate of return to the purchasers reached the abnormally low figure of 0.29 of 1% per annum on a bank discount basis, the yield to the Reserve banks on a repurchase of the bills being even less than that figure, owing to the profit on the transaction accruing to the original purchasers of the bills. The long and short of the matter is that the effect of the forcing out of Reserve credit, when there was absolutely no demand for it in the requirements of trade and business, was to cause an accumulation of excess reserves, mainly in the Federal Reserve District of New York, and in order to find employment for this excess of funds the funds were invested in short-term Government paper as a ready means at hand. The Reserve banks in turn purchased the bills at inordinately low rates of return in order to maintain the liquid character of their own assets. The congestion of funds at the financial centers, on the other hand, further weakened the money market until it was found almost impossible to place loans even at previously unheard of low figures. It may be assumed, too, that the abnormally low rates played no little part in expelling gold, though much of the gold shipped represented movements of the metal made irrespective of ordinary considerations, the primary object being to get the balances held here out of the country back home or to some place where the question of safety would not arise. On that point it may be noted that the Federal Reserve banks on June 1 reported only $179,564,000 of acceptances held for foreign account against $297,735,000 April 27 and $335,312,000 April 6. This, it will be observed, is a reduction of nearly $156,000,000 in the eight weeks.

It should be noted that as a result of the extensive purchases of United States securities and the heavy gold exports, the Federal Reserve banks found themselves obliged to avail of the authority given by the Glass-Steagall Act and use United States Government obligations as part collateral for Federal Reserve notes. This was done for the first time in the week ending May 11, when $97,300,000 of United States Government securities were pledged with Federal Reserve agents as collateral for such notes and was followed by the further pledging of $51,000,000 in the week ending May 18; $48,100,000 in the week ending May 25, and $66,900,000 in the week ending June 1, making the total amount so pledged on the latter day $263,300,000.

As the direct result of the congestion of funds with the concurrently low interest rates prevailing, the New York Clearing House banks found themselves obliged on May 10 to give notice that, effective Friday, May 13, interest rates allowed by the Clearing House banks on the balances of depositors would be reduced by ½ of 1%. The new rates were ½ of 1% on demand deposits, except those of mutual savings banks, on which 1% is paid, and 1% on time deposits. These are the same rates in force in the summer of 1931, which were the lowest on record. However, the actual return to depositors will be lower than at that time, because the Clearing House in the interval since then has put into effect a regulation providing that deduction must be made of that portion of the deposits which the banks are required to hold as legal cash reserves. This reserve is 13% in the case of deposits subject to call and 3% in the case of time deposits. Accordingly, under the new arrangement depositors receive interest only on 87% of their demand deposits and 97% on their time deposits. In other words, the merchant and the business man receives interest on his balances in bank on only 87% of the ½ of 1% per annum to which he is entitled under the change in the case of the demand deposits and 97% of the 1% allowed on time deposits.

Rates of interest allowed on foreign deposits were also reduced. The Informal Committee of Bankers which governs rates of interest paid by the leading banks on foreign deposits voted on May 12 to reduce all rates ½ of 1%, effective May 17. The new rates, which correspond with those in force the previous summer and up to Oct. 16 of that year, were fixed as follows: On demand deposits, except those of foreign central banks, ½ of 1%; on demand deposits of foreign central banks, 1%; on time deposits, 1½%.

The call loan rate on the Stock Exchange again remained unchanged throughout the whole month at 2½%. Outside the Stock Exchange, however, loaning all through the month was at important concessions from the official rates. In the first half of the month the outside rate generally was 1½@2%, while the last half of the month not over 1½%, and on several days as low as 1¼%. Time loans continued in poor demand, and, in fact, there was virtually no demand whatever. At the beginning of the month the range was 1¾@2% for all dates, but the rest of the month the rate was nominally 1½% for all dates. Prime commercial paper continued in good demand and with the supply insufficient to meet requirements. Quotations for choice names of 4 to 6 months maturity ruled at 3¼@3½% the first week of the month, then dropped to 2¾@3%. For names less well known there was a decline from 3¾@4% to 3½%. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York on May 14 reported that leading commercial paper dealers showed a total of $107,800,000 of open market commercial paper outstanding on April 30 against $105,606,000 on March 31, $102,818,000 on Feb. 29, and $107,902,000 on Jan. 31.

There were two changes in the rates for bankers' acceptances during the month of May. On May 5 rates were marked up ¼ of 1% on all maturities in both the bid and the asked columns, but on May 11 they were reduced again ¼ of 1% on all maturities in the bid and asked columns alike. The bill buying rate of the New York Reserve Bank the first week of May remained at 2½% on maturities running from one to 120 days, and at 3% on maturities of 121 to 180 days, but then was marked down to 2½% for all maturities. A further contraction occurred during May in the volume of acceptances held by the Federal Reserve banks both on their own account and for account of their foreign correspondents. On their own account the holdings fell from $45,874,000 April 27 to $35,479,000 June 1, while the holdings of acceptances for foreign banks fell from $297,735,000 April 27 to $179,564,000 June 1. Figures made public on May 18 by the American Acceptance Council indicated a continuance of the decline in the volume of acceptances outstanding. A portion of this reduction, it was stated, might be ascribed to seasonal influences, but there was undoubtedly a growing tendency towards lower acceptance totals, particularly by New York City banks, said Robert H. Bean, Executive Secretary of the Council. The total outstanding decreased $32,251,844 during the month of April, leaving the amount April 30 at $879,038,870, at which figure comparison was with $1,422,021,675 on the corresponding date in 1931. The "Monthly Review" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank makes the following observations bearing upon the course of the acceptance market during the month:

"The discount market for bankers' acceptances was quiet throughout May. Early in the month a falling off in foreign demand for bills caused a slight increase in dealers' portfolios, and the dealers raised their rates by ¼% from the low level of ⅞% for 90-day unindorsed bills established in the latter part of April. The higher rates were maintained by the dealers only from May 5 to May 10, however, as their portfolios declined again within this period and the deposit rates of the New York Clearing House banks were reduced by ½%, effective May 13. Notwithstanding the lack of reinvestment demand for foreign account because of the low yields obtainable, few bills found their way into the discount market, due to the surplus funds which the New York City accepting and discounting banks had available for employment.

At the end of April the group of accepting banks and bankers that report their outstandings to the American Acceptance Council held $455,000,000 of bills, an increase of $78,000,000 during the month. As the volume of bills outstanding declined $32,000,000 during April to $879,000,000, the proportion of bills held by the accepting banks rose from 41 to 52%, or nearly as high a ratio as was reached last summer. Practically no bills have been offered to the Reserve banks recently, and in view of the low level of Federal Reserve holdings of bills for their own account and the decline in foreign correspondents' holdings, it appears likely that the proportion of outstanding bills held by the accepting banks increased substantially further during May."

THE RETURNS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE AND MEMBER BANKS—BROKERS' LOANS.

There were many features in the Federal Reserve statements which attracted wide attention. The continuance of large-scale purchasing of United States Government securities was one of these, the large gold exports with a drawing down of the gold reserves of the Federal Reserve banks was another, and the combined effect of the two in obliging the Federal Reserve banks to avail of the privilege granted by the Glass-Steagall Act in authorizing the use of United States Government securities as part collateral for securing Federal Reserve notes was a third point of interest. As already indicated elsewhere, the total holdings of Government securities by the 12 Reserve institutions after having increased from $885,014,000 April 6 to $1,191,232,000 April 27 further increased to $1,575,200,000 June 1. The bulk of the increase was in the holdings of "certificates and bills," which, after rising from $481,929,000 April 6 to $749,386,000 April 27, further increased to $1,006,784,000 June 1. There were moderate purchases also of United States Government bonds and of United States Treasury notes. The first mentioned item rose from $318,690,000 April 6 to $346,399,000 April 27, and then to $396,794,000 June 1, while the holdings of Treasury notes rose first from $84,395,000 April 6 to $95,447,000 April 27, and then to $171,622,000 June 1. Gold reserves showed relatively little change in the three weeks to April 27, but thereafter fell from $3,014,534,000 April 27 to $2,751,067,000 June 1. This necessitated resort to the privileges of the Glass-Steagall Act, and as a consequence United States Government securities for the first time since the establishment of the Federal Reserve System were used as part collateral for the security of Federal Reserve notes, the Reserve banks having authority to use Government securities to the extent of 60% of the face value of the notes, the other 40% having to consist of the legal cash reserves required under the Reserve Act. In the week ending May 11 $97,300,000 of Government securities were thus used, $51,000,000 more in the week ending May 18, $48,100,000 in the week ending May 25, and $66,900,000 in the week ending June 1, making the total so used on June 1 $263,300,000. However, notwithstanding the heavy losses of gold the reserves of the Federal Reserve System remained far in excess of legal requirements. The ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined declined from 67.9% April 27 to 61.4% June 1, but the legal reserve against Reserve notes is only 40%, and against deposit liabilities but 35%.

As against the large acquisitions of United States Government securities, there was a partial offset in a decrease in the holdings of acceptances, which declined from $45,874,000 April 27 to $35,479,000 June 1, and a decrease in the discount holdings, which fell from $531,824,000 April 27 to $494,601,000 June 1. The final result was that the total of the bill and security holdings, and which constitutes a measure of the volume of Reserve credit outstanding, increased from $1,773,745,000 April 27 to $2,110,424,000 June 1, at which figure comparison was with only $907,016,000 12 months before, on June 3 1931. The amount of Federal Reserve notes in circulation changed irregularly from week to week, but the amount on June 1, at $2,564,399,000, compared with $2,526,572,000 on April 27, and with $1,583,574,000 on June 3 1931. Foreign bank deposits with the Federal Reserve banks fell from $49,598,000 April 27 to $40,706,000 on May 25, but increased to $74,035,000 June 1, and the amount of acceptances held by the Reserve banks for foreign central banks declined from $297,735,000 April 27 to $179,564,000 June 1.

As for brokers' loans, these, as previously explained, are so small now that they are of little consequence. Suffice it to say that there was a further reduction in the total of these loans with the amount on May 25 at $409,000,000 against $495,000,000 on April 27. The monthly figures compiled by the Stock Exchange itself also showed further contraction with the total of the borrowing by Stock Exchange members May 31 reported at $300,397,222 against $379,016,662 April 30; $533,103,059 March 31; $524,663,758 Feb. 29, and still larger totals at previous dates.

COURSE OF STERLING EXCHANGE DURING MAY.

Following the break in the pound sterling during April the course of sterling exchange during May was relatively steady, but with the trend towards higher levels the rising tendency, however, being held in check, according to the belief in financial circles, by operations of the Bank of England and the British Treasury. On many occasions during the month the pound sterling was in demand in New York and in many other parts of the world, and it was the belief that the British Treasury and the Bank of England took measures to prevent any sharp advance not only in the New York market but in leading European centers. The ordinary normal conditions of a seasonal character favors sterling exchange at this time of the year, but bankers also reported a considerable demand for exchange on London from the Far East, Oceanica and South America, as well as in the United States and Canada. The feature in the foreign exchange market during May was the wide sale of dollar exchange in Europe. There was apparently a renewed "flight from the dollar," and a marked disinclination of foreign funds to stay in the United States owing to the large-scale purchases of United States Government securities by the Federal Reserve banks, and also owing to nervous fears that radical legislation proposed in Congress would lead to unwarranted credit and currency expansion, and might force the country off the gold standard. This fear evidently lay at the bottom of the large gold exports—exports of huge proportions which constitute the conspicuous feature in foreign exchange affairs during the month, as noted further below; export shipments from New York aggregated no less than $235,600,000, including $22,100,000 addition to earmarked stock; $5,900,000 was taken for account of London. High officials in banking circles tried to reassure European investors that the American dollar was absolutely safe, but without having much effect in checking gold withdrawals. Such statements, according to newspaper accounts, were made in official quarters in England, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy and Spain. The flight from the dollar was not reflected so much in sterling quotations as in those of French francs, Dutch guilders, Swiss francs and Belgian belgas. Doubtless sterling would have reflected prevailing apprehensions more strongly but for official intervention by the London authorities, who were apparently determined that rates for sterling should not be permitted, at least for the time being, to make any sharp advances. On numerous occasions there was evidence of a strong demand for sterling in many centers, and quotations might have soared except for intervention on the part of the London authorities. Whether this intervention was accomplished directly through London bankers or through supporting operations by banking authorities in other centers was not known, and not deemed of any great consequence as the directing action was believed to come from London.

Despite frequent assurances by leading banking authorities in Europe, a marked disinclination on the part of foreign funds to come to the United States or to remain here continued throughout the month. London's own position was deemed secure, as is evident from the fact that the Bank of England on May 12 further reduced its discount rate from 3% to 2½%, making the fourth reduction in the Bank of England rate since Feb. 18. Open market discount rates in London likewise reflected a feeling of great security as well as oversupplies of loanable funds. Open market discounts for short bills in London were 1% on May 31 against 1⅞@2% on April 30, and 1 1/16% for three months bills against 2@2 1/16% on April 30. Gold continued to reach the London market from South Africa, India and other Asiatic countries, and the major portion of this is believed to have been taken for account of the British Treasury through the Exchange Equalization Account authorized by the British Parliament in April, in which month the Chancellor of the Exchequer received authority to borrow £150,000,000 for that purpose.

The outstanding event in sterling exchange during May was perhaps the purchase, on Saturday, May 14, of £2,012,665 of bar gold by the Bank of England, its first big purchase of gold since abandonment of the gold standard on Sept. 21 1931. This was not open market gold, and London bullion dealers professed ignorance of its source, but suggested that the metal had been accepted by the Treasury on exchange accounts. Later the Bank of England bought £1,234,477 of gold bars in the London open market, and still later acquired other consignments of the metal. According to press dispatches, on May 25, Major Walter Elliott, Financial Secretary of the Treasury, announced in the House of Commons that Great Britain had no intention of returning to the gold standard "while gold prices behave as they are doing now." Mr. Elliott's statement was made in response to persistent demands by members of the Commons for a specific promise not to permit external events such as the United States reflation policy to precipitate a too hasty return to the gold standard. The Bank of England statement for the week ending May 4 showed a loss of £16,492 in gold; for the week ending May 11 there was a gain in amount of £24,717; for the week ending May 18 a gain of £2,037,605; in the week ending May 25 a gain of £2,238,605, and in the week ending June 1 a gain of £3,580,620.

Cable transfers on London, May 31, ranged at 3.68¾@3.70⅛ against 3.65¾@3.66⅜ on Monday, May 2. The first half of the month the sterling rate showed a declining tendency, and on May 14 cable transfers were 3.65¼@3.66¼, but the rest of the month, and particularly in the closing days, the trend was slowly upward. Owing to the steady transfer from dollars into sterling, rates for sterling futures ruled at a sharp premium at the close of May, this premium for three months futures being 4½%. Canadian exchange continued at a severe discount, and on May 23 this discount was as much as 13¼@13½%; on May 31 the discount was 12@12⅛% against 10 7/16@10⅝% discount on May 2.

Repeated references have been made above to the huge outflow of gold from the United States, inspired by the fear that the country might be driven off the gold standard, as a result of Federal Reserve operations in the large-scale purchases of United States Government securities and the numerous schemes finding favor in Congress for the issue of additional amounts of United States obligations. In the following statement, taken from the "Monthly Review" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank for June 1, the full details of the gold movement are indicated:

"A considerable reduction in the monetary gold stock of the United States occurred during May, totaling $216,000,000, the largest gold loss since last October. A major part of the movement reflected a transfer abroad of central bank funds which had been employed in the New York money market, carrying further the tendency for central banks to concentrate their reserves in their own vaults instead of keeping a substantial part invested in foreign money markets. On May 25 the monetary gold stock of the United States was $4,207,000,000, which is about the same as the average level in 1928 and 1929, although since the autumn of 1929 the volume of foreign short-term funds in the New York money market has been reduced by about two-thirds, and foreign investments in American securities have been substantially reduced.

"Exports, which totaled $213,500,000, consisted chiefly of shipments of $59,600,000 to France, $70,500,000 to Holland, $55,100,000 to Switzerland, $19,000,000 to Belgium, $5,900,000 to England, and $3,400,000 to Germany. A sizable part of the gold exported during the month represented the shipment of gold released from earmark, but as there were additional amounts set aside the total volume of gold held under earmark for foreign account on May 31 showed a net increase of $22,100,000 for the month.

"As a partial offset to the losses of gold through exports and earmarkings, there was a total of $14,600,000 of gold imported, of which $4,500,000 came from Canada, $1,000,000 from Peru, $500,000 from Newfoundland, and $800,000 from Mexico through New York; and $3,700,000 from China, $2,400,000 from Japan, and $800,000 from Australia through San Francisco."

THE CONTINENTAL AND OTHER FOREIGN EXCHANGES.

The Continental exchanges during May were all under the influence of the fear which led to the renewed calling home of foreign balances in this country and likewise the closing out of many foreign investments here, and which eventuated in a gold export movement from the United States of phenomenal proportions, to which repeated reference has already been made. At the same time a condition of great ease in the European money markets prevailed, leading to further reductions in discount rates in addition to those announced in previous months. Reference has already been made to the reduction on May 12 in the discount rate of the Bank of England from 3% to 2½%. The Bank of Ireland at the same time reduced from 4% to 3½%. The Bank of Italy on May 2 cut its discount rate from 6% to 5%, and on May 5 the Bank of Lithuania reduced from 7½% to 7%. On May 13 the National Bank of Sweden lowered its rate from 5% to 4½%, effective May 17, and on this last-mentioned day the Bank of Bulgaria reduced its rate from 9½% to 8½%, and on May 25 to 8%, while on May 19 the National Bank of Norway reduced from 5% to 4½%, and on May 28 the National Bank of Denmark scaled down its rate from 5% to 4%, the lower figure becoming effective May 31. On May 20 the Central Reserve Bank of Peru reduced from 7% to 6%.

French francs were exceptionally firm, owing very largely to the flight of funds from the dollar. The Bank of France continued to draw down its foreign balances in this country in the form of gold, and its gold takings at New York for export were of exceptional dimensions, the shipments for the month to France having reached no less than $59,600,000, as noted further above. Utterances in French banking circles were strongly condemnatory of the so-called inflation policies which they seemed to think were being pursued by British and American banking authorities. According to dispatches to the New York "Times," on Monday, May 9, two articles on the dollar, which the dispatch stated were evidently inspired by the officials of the French Treasury and the Bank of France, attracted much attention in Paris. One appeared in "Le Temps" and the other in "Le Journal des Debats." Both expressed faith in the stability of the dollar, coupled with criticism of the Federal Reserve's policy as tending toward inflation. "The purchase by the Federal Reserve of Treasury bonds," said an editorial in the "Journal des Debats," "has resulted in weakness of the dollar, and that was the subject of telephone conferences of the directors of the Federal Reserve Board with the principal European banks of issue, as well as the question of the international application of the policy of credit expansion." According to "Le Temps" the rise in the British pound early in the previous week, which showed that dollars were being sold against pounds, was stopped by the intervention in the market in Paris by the Bank of France, which bought dollars heavily. Generally speaking, according to the New York "Times" dispatch, what the Treasury and the Bank of France officials expressed in the inspired articles was simply a reflection of the two great pillars of French financial philosophy, the fear of inflation and profound respect for gold metal.

Cable transfers on Paris touched 3.95 3/16% on May 28, a new high figure for the year. The rate May 31 was 3.94⅞@3.95 as against 3.94¼@3.94⅜ on May 2. The Bank of France in its return for the week ending May 6 showed a gain in gold holdings of 477,750,198 francs; for the week ending May 13 there was a further increase of 311,660,240 francs; for the week ending May 20 an increase of 255,474,930 francs, and for the week ending May 27 an increase of 563,268,563 francs.

The German mark fluctuated rather erratically and was inclined to move lower at a time when the other Continental exchanges showed a rising tendency, and the last week of the month the mark developed decided weakness, and especially on the closing day, May 31, probably because Chancellor Bruening had the day before handed in his resignation and that of his entire cabinet to President von Hindenburg at the instance of the latter. Cable transfers on Berlin, after moving up from 23.76 May 2 to 23.90 May 11, and hovering around the latter figures for several days, dropped to 23.65 May 27, and on May 31 showed a range of 23.62½@23.68. The pressing problem in Germany appeared to be that of transfer or the ability to obtain the necessary foreign exchange. German authority stated that there were few cases of German long-term loans abroad on which interest charges were not being earned, and that there would be no difficulty were payments made in marks instead of foreign currency. During the first four months of the calendar year the German export surplus was not sufficient to meet all the devisen requirements, and the Bank of Germany was compelled to pay out approximately 170,000,000 marks in gold and foreign exchange. During that period, however, requirements were unusually large because considerable amounts of the foreign debt falling due under the standstill agreement were repaid. In the gold outflow from this country Germany did not fail to participate—there were repeated small shipments from this side to Germany, and the aggregate of the shipments to Germany for the month was $3,400,000. Much mystery appeared to surround these shipments inasmuch as mark exchange was practically nominal and quoted rates did not touch the gold export point for shipments of the metal from New York.

Berlin dispatches, May 4, reported that the Bank of France had informed the Bank of Germany that the $90,000,000 Central bank credit which matured on June 4, and in which the Federal Reserve banks, the Bank of England, and the Bank for International Settlements, each for one-quarter of the amount, were participants, had been extended for another period of three months. The other three participants joined in the extension, though the Bank of France insisted on the amortization of 20% of the debt. The Bank of Germany, in its return for the first quarter of May, recorded a loss of 7,724,000 marks, but for the second quarter showed an increase of 374,000 marks, and for the third quarter an increase of 4,800,000 marks, with 6,437,000 marks further increase in the fourth quarter of the month. The note circulation of the Bank of Germany decreased 137,192,000 marks in the first quarter, 67,919,000 marks in the second quarter, and 183,671,000 marks in the third quarter, but with an expansion of 221,288,000 marks in the final quarter.

An Austrian transfer moratorium was foreshadowed in a note addressed by the Vienna Government to the League of Nations and made public about the middle of the month, but was at the end of the month postponed awaiting action on the part of the League of Nations. The action would be tantamount to a suspension of service on most external loans, and perhaps on all of them. Asserting that the country was facing bankruptcy while the great Powers debated the political possibilities of a Danubian Union, the note stated that further months cannot be allowed to elapse without the beginning of a program corresponding to the urgent needs of Austria. The note concluded with a plea that the League and its Financial Commission offer counsel in this dilemma. The Austrian schilling, however, for exchange did not show any fluctuations of importance. Italian exchange was slightly easier, and cable transfers on Italy, May 31, were 5.13½@5.14⅛ against 5.15½@5.16½ on May 2. The Italian Treasury conversion operation, which asked for one billion lire, and for which a total of four billion was subscribed, was regarded as encouraging in demonstrating an abundance of liquid funds and the public confidence in Government finances. The Greek Government failed to remit funds to pay the May 1 coupon of the Greek Government 40-year 7% secured sinking fund gold bonds (refugee loan of 1924). This loan amounted to about $60,000,000, of which about $6,000,000 was placed in the United States and the remainder in London and in Athens. Cable transfers on Greece were quoted at 0.63@0.70 May 31 against 0.78@0.82 on May 2.

The exchanges on the countries neutral during the war were all strong under the influence of the large withdrawals of funds and balances in this country, and which led to such a large outflow of gold from the United States. Swiss francs and Dutch guilders were especially strong, and both countries doubtless furnished a haven of refuge for much of the gold withdrawn from this country; $55,100,000 gold was shipped during the month to Switzerland, and $70,500,000 to Holland. And cable transfers on Switzerland on May 31 were quoted at a range of 19.58½@19.61 against 19.41½@19.43½ May 2, while cable transfers on Holland were 40.56@40.59 May 31 against 40.50½@40.53 on May 2. The orders for Swiss francs both here and abroad were said to be due to the transfers of private individual accounts either from the closing out of deposit accounts or the liquidation of security holdings. The funds were sent to Switzerland despite the fact that Swiss banks pay no interest on foreign accounts in order to discourage the influx. Such funds simply seek safety.

The Scandinavian currencies also manifested a rising tendency, and this was true even as regards Sweden, notwithstanding the losses suffered through the Kreuger & Toll disaster in which Swedish interests were so largely involved. Kreuger & Toll, the parent company of the vast interests which were headed by the late Ivar Kreuger, filed a petition in bankruptcy on May 24 and applied for annulment of the provisional moratorium granted to it by the Swedish Government. The Swedish Investigating Committee, in a report issued May 20, recommended that the concern be declared bankrupt. The report revealed that Ivar Kreuger, the so-called "match king," who committed suicide in Paris on March 12 1932, died practically penniless and owing $168,300,000. Associated Press accounts from Stockholm, May 4, stated that Ivar Kreuger had been summoned while in the United States to appear before representatives of the National Bank of Sweden and banks in Berlin on March 15, when he committed suicide in Paris on March 12. the Royal Banking Committee of the Riksdag reported. The report censured the management of the National Bank, the Riksbank, for the enormous credits granted Kreuger. The Swedish crown for cable transfers was 18.99@19.10 May 31 against 18.34@18.40 on May 2. The Danish crown for cable transfers, after selling below 20.00 on May 14, was quoted at 20.15@20.25 May 31 against 20.02½@20.10 on May 2. The Norwegian crown, however, after an advance the early part of the month, showed a declining tendency the latter part. As against 18.56@18.65 May 2, the range for the Norwegian crown May 31 was 18.47@18.55 on May 31. The high point for the month was 18.75@18.80 May 7, and the low point 18.32@18.45 May 14. Spanish pesetas continued their upward movement, and the rate for cable transfers on Spain May 31 was 8.24@8.27 against 7.88@7.91½. This was taken as indicating growing confidence in the Spanish Republic.

Exchange on South American countries showed no changes of any great consequence except that the Brazilian milreis developed strength on an improvement in the general condition of the country; cable transfers on Brazil were quoted at 7.25@7.59 May 31 against 6.71@7.95 May 2, and the Peruvian sol suffered a sharp drop on the announcement on May 17 that the Peruvian Congress had approved a bill relieving the central bank of its obligation to exchange notes for gold under the "Kemmerer law." In other words, Peru suspended gold payments. The Bank was authorized to restore the operations of the gold standard when "the Board of Directors believed the time has come to re-establish the gold standard" and upon the approval of the Finance Minister. Under the new measure the Central Bank of Peru may buy gold in any form and foreign drafts, but independently of the gold backing of the sol. The sol for checks May 31 was quoted at 22.25@25.00 against 28.00 on May 2.

The exchanges on the Far East were weak on the decline in the price of silver, while the Japanese yen was at the same time independently weak. The Japanese Premier was murdered by an assassin on Sunday, May 15, which necessitated a change in political control, but even before this there were reports that the fiduciary note issues of the Bank of Japan were to be heavily increased and also that the Government would undertake control of foreign exchange. The yen for checks was 32.10@32.50 May 31 against 32.47@32.62 on May 2. On May 16 the yen sold as low as 31.10@31.35. The Hongkong dollar for checks sold up from 23.12@23 11/16 May 2 to 24.00@24.44 May 12, while the price of silver was rising, but then dropped to 23.28@23 13/16 May 23, as the price of silver slumped; the close May 31 was at 23.56@23 15/16. The Shanghai tael for checks was 30.67@31¼ May 31 against 30.14@30.63 May 2, but in the meantime had sold at 31.26@31.88 May 12. Rupees on Bombay were 27.55@28.35 May 31 in comparison with 27.25@27.63 on May 2. Silver in London, after rising from 16 11/16 pence May 2 to 17 5/16 pence May 17, dropped to 16⅝ pence May 21, and was 16 15/16 pence May 31.

The tables on pages 16 to 38 furnish a complete record of the transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during May, and range since Jan. 1. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. A few other bonds, like the Holland-American Line 6s, for special reasons, are also quoted "flat," but where this is the case the quotation "flat" will be found against the name of the issue. This method of quoting bonds became effective Jan. 2 1909.

For footnotes to tables see last page of bonds and last page of stocks.
